PREFACE

TO THE COMPLETED WORK.

THE following compilation was commenced nearly twenty years ago solely for the purpose of tracing out my own descent, without the most remote thought that a line of it would ever meet the public eye, but as my simple original plan was followed out, a large store of facts, bearing on the genealogy of the family generally, was accumulated; these were thought by my friends to be too valuable to be lost, and I was strongly advised to print them for the benefit of other members of the family. To this proposition I replied that these facts were too disjointed to be of any value; but the request to print was strenuously repeated and after some months' consideration I consented to put them in type, confidently relying on the assistance of a friend who was no novice in the field of genealogy. But, alas! my work was scarcely commenced when my friend suddenly died, stricken with apoplexy. I had, however, already gone too far to retreat, and I resolved to go on alone, little thinking what a task I had before me.

With many discouragements, I have continued my work until its completion. Of my success the readers will be the judges.

After my resolution to print was formed, I found it necessary to go over the field from which my materials were to be obtained in a thorough and systematic manner. Though John Perkins resided in Boston during the first two years of his life in New England, yet Essex County, Massachusetts, may be considered the earliest permanent home of the family on this side of the ocean, and its records, as found in the Probate Office, Registry of Deeds, and also the files of the County Court, were, accordingly carefully examined from the beginning. The records of births, deaths, and marriages of most of the towns in the county were also consulted. Visits were made to the oldest graveyards, which furnished me with very valuable data. In the absence of exact dates of births, I found the church records to furnish the time of baptisms, which almost invariably took place within a very few days after the birth. Old Bibles also, which contained family records were considered as among the best and most reliable sources of information.

Where migration to distant parts of the country had taken place my only resource was correspondence; but my returns from this source were often mingled with tradition, which is not always reliable. Many families, however, have kept a written record extending back for some four or five generations. The result obtained from all these sources is contained in the present volume.

In carrying out my work it was thought best to divide it into three parts, both for convenience in compilation and also that the members of each branch might the better avail themselves of the information it contained relating to their particular division of the family; but it has been kept before the readers of these divisions that they were but parts, and that the three were ultimately to be combined in the completed work, such as is the present volume.

It may be asked why this book was so long delayed: in answer I will say that to write genealogy rapidly is an impossibility; a single date may cost days or weeks even of seeking. A glance at a single page can convey no sort of an idea of the labor it cost to produce it.

As to the plan of the work, it will be found exceedingly simple. A number is attached to each person bearing the name of Perkins, and this follows the individual through that part of the book in which his or her name is found.

It will be seen that these numbers are wanting before the names of the children of daughters, who lose the name of Perkins upon their marriage; the names of only one generation of their children are given.

The compiler trusts his efforts to bring together in systematic order the members of this large family will be kindly received by the several members of it.

As it is nearly or quite impossible to avoid errors and omissions in a work of this kind,—no genealogy was ever perfect,—he trusts any errors that may be detected will be kindly pardoned.

PREFACE.

JOHN PERKINS of Ipswich, Mass., some of whose descendants' names are here given, came from England to America in the earliest days of the settlement of New England.

Tradition in the family says he came from the town of Newent in Gloucestershire: researches made among the records of Newent and towns in its immediate neighborhood, show that there were numerous families of that name living there at the date of the emigration of John Perkins, which took place in 1631. We have not yet succeeded, however, in connecting him with any of these, but we have found enough to render it highly probable that Newent was his place of residence, if not his birthplace; and to strengthen this probability, we find that some of his grandchildren, sons of his son Jacob, who left Ipswich and settled in Connecticut, called the name of their new settlement Newent, in remembrance of the town in England from which their ancestors came.

John Perkins and his family were not the only early settlers of the name that landed upon these shores. The names of six or seven heads of families of the same name are known as having been among very early emigrants to the colonies in the new world, viz.: Revd William Perkins, who came first to Boston and was afterward in Weymouth, Ipswich, Gloucester, and at last in Topsfield; John, first in Boston, then of Ipswich (whose descendants we now give); Isaac of Ipswich, Abraham of Hampton, N. H., William of Dover, N. H., Edward of Connecticut, William of New Jersey, and perhaps a family who settled in Delaware; besides these there were quite a number of individuals of the name who came as passengers from London to Virginia and elsewhere, who are not known to have had families.

Of those above named, there are strong reasons to believe that several of them were more or less closely related. John and Isaac of Ipswich were perhaps brothers, and Abraham of Hampton, a brother or cousin. It seems highly probable that the Boston family, of which Edmund is the first individual certainly known, were the descendants of Isaac of Ipswich and his wife Alice, who were there in 1637, and who received grants of land at that time. Traditions in the family point that way. We trust that the researches now making in England by Mr. Henry F. Waters under the auspices of the New England Historic Genealogical Society of Boston, may bring to light the connection between these families.

A very natural desire exists in the minds of the members of this family to know the origin of the name, and we give the following as being, without doubt, the facts.

Until about the year 1400, surnames were extremely uncommon in England, but since that time men were accustomed to add to their Christian names certain terminals, especially such as would the better distinguish them from their fathers. We find among these that of kin or kins, which Bardsley, a late English writer, thinks has all the significance of our junior, so that we have Wilkins, the son of Will; Jenkins, the son of James; Tomkins, the son of Tom; Pierrekins, the son of Pierre, etc.

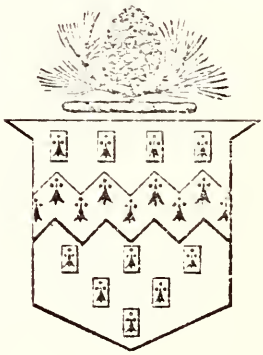
In the reign of Richard II, Pierre de Morlaix, or Morley, probably a Norman from the town of Morlaix, in France, was high steward of the estates of Hugo Despencer, who was at that time one of the richest and most powerful nobles of England. This Pierre de Morlaix had by his wife, Agnes Taylor, a son Henry, who, on the death of his father, was known as Henry Pierrekin, or Henry the son of Pierre. He succeeded to the stewardship, and had a son John, who in time became steward and wrote his name John Perkins, and sometimes Perkyns, armiger.



This John Perkins, esquire, was Lord of the manor of Madrasfield as well as steward of the Despencers, and it is believed that he was the first who bore for his arms, the fesse dancette between six billets.

John Perkins, armiger, was living during the reign of Henry VI and held that position of high steward when the heiress of that famous family married the king-making Earl of Warwick.

In the numerous transfers of land which he was called upon to make at the time, he sometimes signed his name Perkyns and sometimes Perkins, and some of his descendants, now living in England, sign themselves Parkyns or Parkins.

This coat of arms of the Perkins family was taken from a deed of land in Ipswich, Mass., from Dr. John Perkins and wife to John Wainwright of Ipswich, and bears date of 1725, and was of right used by Dr. Perkins and his family, who were then British subjects. This is the same arms as is found upon memorial tablets in churches in England at this day.

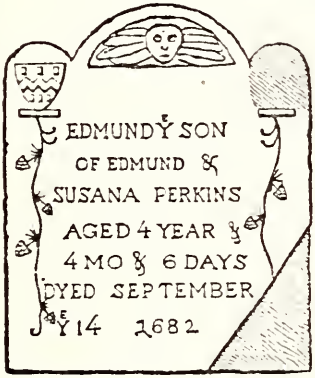
A few years ago a tombstone bearing the date 1682, was unearthed in Boston, of which we give an engraving. By this it will be seen that the same heraldic device is cut in the corners of the stone, and that the billets are disposed, three above and three below the fesse, and the pine cones are upon a pendent branch instead of as a crest above the shield, but both are the same, and in some cases are used by the same individual. These arms are upon the tomb of Francis Perkins of Ufton, England, who was born in 1582. Some of the later families used an "Eagle displayed and the fesse in a canton."



It may here be stated that one of the descendants of Edmund Perkins of Boston, while in Europe a few years ago, bought (in 1865) a portrait having upon the back this inscription: "Il signore Pierrekins de Ufton in Ingleterre, da mana di Carouci." This portrait is said to bear a strong resemblance to a living member of the Perkins family on this side of the ocean.

Whoever is desirous of information concerning the arms of the Perkins family, as well as the early history of the individuals bearing the name, will be interested to read an article printed in the Hist. Coll. Essex Institute, Vol. XV.

An interesting letter of W. H. Whitmore of Boston, concerning the ancient families of Perkins, living near Newent, England, can be found in the Register of the N. E. Historic Genealogical Soc. of Boston, Vols. xi and xii.

The introduction of local historical matter into a book of genealogy certainly needs no apology at this day. During the comparatively few years of our history as a people, many of our earliest records have been lost, and any efforts which will preserve what remain by multiplying copies are to be commended, and are not out of place when connected with the early lives of our ancestors.

It has been an object in these pages to present, where it is possible, some little sketch of the life history of the individuals, in connection with the dry dates of births, marriages and deaths, which are only as the skeleton. It is to be regretted that this cannot always be done, for too often the good deeds of our ancestors sleep with them, while the lives of many are so uneventful that but little can be said of them, and it is always a rather delicate matter to speak of the deeds of the living.

The facts here collated were gathered from various sources, such as the records of the oldest deeds and wills in the county, stones in cemeteries, town records, family bibles, and the memory of aged people as well as from the younger generations. It is not for a moment to be supposed that these facts, as here given, are free from many errors and omissions, and the writer will be thankful to have the former corrected and the latter supplied. No one knows better than he the many omissions which it was not in his power to supply. The family has spread over the whole country, and he has done what he could to collect information from every part of the land. In some cases these efforts have met with hearty responses, in others the letters were either miscarried or were not considered of sufficient importance to deserve an answer.

Should any person of the name, on looking over these pages, fail to find his or her name in its proper place, the author would thank all such persons to address him through the mail, giving him all the information in their possession, or that they can obtain from reliable sources, with the names of places and dates, and send to him as soon as may be, that additions and corrections may be made in a forthcoming number.

I cannot let this opportunity pass without acknowledging my obligations and indebtedness to those persons who have so kindly aided me in collecting the materials here put together, and would especially mention my friends and kinsmen, the late Horatio N. Perkins, Esq., of Melrose, Henry F. Waters, Esq., of Salem, Mr. D. Walter Perkins, of Utica, N. Y., A. T. Perkins, Esq., of Boston, John H. Gould, Esq., of Topsfield, as well as the many others who have kindly furnished me with facts concerning their families.

DESCENDANTS OF

QUARTERMASTER JOHN PERKINS.

THE FAMILY OF JOHN PERKINS OF IPSWICH.

BY GEORGE A. PERKINS, M. D.

1 "John Perkins, senior," as he is called on the records, the immigrant ancestor, some of whose descendants we propose to give below, was probably born, if the traditions of the family are correct, in Newent, Gloucestershire, England, in the year 1590. He was among the earliest emigrants from the mother country, sailing from Bristol, England, Dec. 1, 1630, in the ship Lyon, William Pierce, master, bound for Boston in America, taking with him his entire family, consisting then of his wife and five children. His fellow passengers were, the afterward famous divine, Rev. Roger Williams, and others; twenty in all. After a stormy passage of sixty-seven days they arrived at Nantasket, Feb. 5, 1631, and on the 6th came to an anchor before Boston. The following extract from "Prince's Annals of New England" (Vol. I, p. 341) gives a graphic account of the condition of the colony at the time of their arrival and also of their stormy voyage.

"As the winter (1629–30) came on provisions are very scarce (in the Massachusetts Bay) and the people necessitated to feed on clams and muscles, and ground nuts and acorns; and these got with much difficulty in the winter season. Upon which people grew much tired and discouraged; especially when they hear that the governor himself has his last batch of bread in the oven. And many are the fears of the people that Mr. Pierce, who was sent to Ireland for provisions, is either cast away or taken by the pirates. Upon this a day of fasting and prayer to God for relief is appointed (to be on the sixth of February). But God, who delights to appear in the greatest straits, works marvellously at this time; for on February 5, the very day before the appointed fast, in came the ship Lion, Mr. William Pierce master, now arriving at Nantasket, laden with provisions. Upon which joyful occasion the day is changed, and ordered to be kept (on the 22d) as a day of thanksgiving."[1]

February 8. The governor goes aboard the Lion riding at Long Island; (next day) the ship comes to an anchor before Boston (to the great joy of the people) where she rides very well, notwithstanding the great drifts of ice. And the provisions are by the governor, distributed to the people proportionable to their necessities."

"The Lion[2] (had) set sail from Bristol December first, brought about twenty passengers, and had a very stormy passage; yet through God's mercy all the people came safe except one[3] of the sailors, who had not far from our shore, in a tempest having helped to take in the sprit-sail, as he was coming down fell into the sea, where after long swimming was drowned, to the great dolour of those in the ship, who beheld so lamentable a spectacle, without being able to help him; the sea was so high and the ship drove so fast before the wind, though her sails were taken down."

For about two years after their arrival in America the Perkins family resided in Boston, where the youngest child, Lydia, was born, her baptism being recorded upon the parish books of the First Church there, June 3, 1632.

[1] This may have been the beginning of that now general custom of keeping Thanksgiving day, which is observed not only in New England but throughout the country.

[2] Sometimes written Lyon.

[3] The Captain's son, Way.

We are not able to determine with certainty just what employed the time of our ancestor during the two years he resided in Boston, but the record shows he was not idle, but engaged in the public business of the colony.

The following extract is from the Records of the General Court, Nov. 7, 1632.

"Capt Traske, Willm Cheeseboro, Mr Conant and John Perkins are appointed by the Court to sett downe the bounds betwixt Rocksbury and Dorchestr. Ralfe Sprague is chosen vmpire." Records of Col. Mass. Bay, Vol. 1, p. 102.

We also find the following concession made to him by the "General Court," April 3, 1632.

"It was ordered that noe pson wtsoeuer shall shoote att fowle vpon Pullen Poynte or Noddles Heland, but that the sd places shalbe reserved for John Perkins to take fowle wth netts." Rec. of Col. of Mass. Bay, Vol. 1, p. 103.

On the 18th of May, 1631, he took the oath of freeman, admitting him to all the civil rights of the colony. He removed from Boston in 1633 to the colony then newly founded by John Winthrop and others at Ipswich. Here he was largely engaged in agriculture, and had several grants of land; the location of his house was near the river, at the entrance to Jeffries neck, on what is now East street, where he had considerable land granted him.

We copy the following from the Ipswich book of Land Grants or "Commoner's" records."

1634. "Given and granted unto John Perkins the elder 40 acres of land, more or less, bounded on the east by Mr. Robert Coles his land, on the south by a small creek, on the west unto ye town side."

1635. Granted Jno. Perkins Sr. 3 acres of upland and 10 of meadow lying toward the head of Chebacco creek, also a little island[4] called More's point about 50 acres on the south side of ye town river. Also 10 acres on part whereof he hath built an house, having Wm Perkins on S. W.—Also 6 acres of meadow and 6 upland joining to the former 10 acres, all 3 lying at east end of the town having Wm White's land on N. E. and a highway to Jeffries neck on N. W."

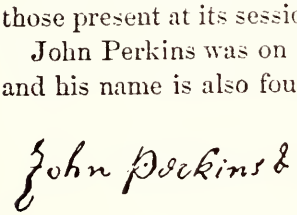
1636. "John Perkins Sr. was granted 40 acres of meadow and upland at Chebacco, which he sold to Thomas Howlet 1637."

1639. "Granted to John Perkins 6 acres planting ground on South side river." Vol. 1, p. 174.

He was a Deputy to the General Court and was among those present at its session holden in Boston May 25, 1636.

John Perkins was on the Grand Jury in 1648 and 1652, and his name is also found on trial juries.



He was appraiser to the estate of Sarah Dillingham in 1645, and his autograph, as such, is here given.

"John Perkins, sen., of Ipswich, being above 60 years of age, was freed from ordinary training by the Court in March, 1650."

John Perkins, besides holding town offices and occupying other places of trust, appears to have been one of the leading men of Ipswich, and was highly esteemed by his fellow townsmen. He died in 1654 at the age of 64 years. His will (which is of importance as settling the names of his wife and children and some of his grandchildren) and inventory are now on file in the Probate Office in Salem; a copy of each is given below, as also of his

2 John Perkins, jr. (John[1]) born in England in 1614, came, with others of the same family, to Boston in New England in 1631, and with them removed to Ipswich in 1633. The next year he had a grant of land, as appears from the book of land grants of Ipswich.

1634. "Given and granted unto John Perkins, jr., 6 acres of land in equal shares with Thomas Hardy and Francis Jordan lying East and West of him." At this time he was only 20 years of age. The next year he had still further grants, as appears upon the same record.

1635. "John Perkins, jr., was granted 6 acres of planting ground beyond John Manning's house, lying between Francis Jordan on the one side and Thomas Hardy on the other. Also there was granted to him 6 acres of marsh lying upon the brook commonly called "Labor-in-vain," having Mr. Bartholomew's on the one side and the great river on the other. Also a house-lot containing an acre, lying by the river, having Thomas Hardy's and Robert Andrew's house-lot on the southeast side, upon which John Perkins hath built an house and enclosed it with paleing. Also 5 and 40 acres of ground lying beyond great Chebacco river, right against the Ware, bounded by the river on the northwest and by a swamp on the southwest.—There was liberty granted to build a ware which he hath built and is to enjoy the profits for 7 yrs. beginning 1636, for the which he is to sell alewives he there has taken at 5s pr 1000, according to his agreement with the town expressed in the town book, which 5 and 40 acres and the wares the said John Perkins hath sold to Mr. John Cogswell, his heirs and assigns."

1637. "John Perkins, Jr., is possessed of an Island having on the south side the Chebacco river, on the north an arm of the same running between the said Island and another Island called Hog Island, bounded east by Chebacco Bay, west by a meeting of many brooks coming out of the marshes."

Feb. 1, 1637. He had also a grant of 70 acres of land against his Island beyond Chebacco river, which land he is to relinquish within four years to the town, if called upon to do so.

He married Elizabeth Everleth ——— about 1635, and entered upon the duties of life with a vigor which made him a desirable citizen of this new settlement.

We here give some account of a most important service which he rendered the infant colony, as this is related by Rev. Thomas Cobbet in a paper entitled "New England's Deliverances." He says:

"About 5 or 6 yeares after (an intended attack upon "Nahumkeick" by the Indians), in the first planting of Ipswich (as a credible man informs me, namely Quartermaster Perkins), the Tarratines or Easterly Indians had a design to cut them off at the first, when they had but between 20 or 30 men, old and young belonging to the place (and that instant most of the men had gone into bay about their occasions, not hearing thereof). It was thus one Robin, a friendly Indian, came to this John Perkins, then a young man then living in a little hut upon his father's island on this side of Jeofrye's Neck, and told him that on such a Thursday morning, early, there would come four Indians to draw him to goe down the Hill to the water side, to truck with them, which if he did, he and all neare him would be cut off: for their were 40 burchen canoues, would lie out of sight, in the brow of the Hill, full of Armed Indians for that purpose: of this he forthwith acquaints Mr. John Winthrop, who then lived there, in a howse near the water, who advised him if such Indians came, to carry it ruggedly toward them, and threaten to shoot them if they would not be gone, and when their backs were turned to strike up the drum he had with him beside his two muskets, and then discharge them; that those 6 or 8 young men, who were in the marshes hard by a mowing, haveing theyr guns each of them ready charged, by them, might take the Alarme and the Indians would perceive theyr plot was discovered and haste away to sea againe: which was accordingly so acted and tooke like effect: for he told me that presently after he discovered 40 such canowes sheare off from under the Hill and make as fast as they could to sea. And no doubt many godly hearts were lifted up to heaven for deliverance, both in that deliverance at Salem and this at Ipswich."

He opened the first public house in Ipswich, and was chosen as Quartermaster of the military organization of the settlement, a title which he ever after retained. That he was one of the leading men of his day is evident by the frequency with which his name is mentioned in connection with the varied affairs of the colony. In deeds and other public documents and papers he styles himself, "I, John Perkins Quartermaster and ordinary keeper."

We find upon the records of the General Court the following:

June 1, 1677. "The account of Quartermaster Perkins being exhibbited to ye Gennerall Court by Phillip ffowler, being pervsed, the Court finds many articles too highly chardged, and doe therefore referr the consideration thereof to the comittee of the army to examine and passe what they find just and meet to be allowed."

May 12, 1675. "Quartermaster John Perkins, sargent Belchar, Henry Bennett with several others petition the Gen[l] Court for liberty to lay out a new plantatioa, which the Court allow, provided it be 6 miles square and not more than 10 long, etc., etc., etc."

February 16, 1681–2. "Quartermaster John Perkins was one of the first signers of a petition to the King to resist the claims of Robert Mason to a title to lands about Gloucester, Cape Ann and places adjacent."

He was engaged in the coast fisheries, and used a part of what is Little Neck for curing his fish as early as 1645. County Records, Vol. VIII, p. 61.

His autograph, here given, was taken from a deed of land given to his son Nathaniel.

He acquired a large landed property, as numerous purchases and sales of real estate appear upon record. He made no will at his decease, having given to each of his sons a good farm or houselot "in some part of my estates." He also made provision, sometime before his death, for the maintenance and clothing of his wife, if she should outlive him, and also of his youngest son, Thomas, who seems to have been an invalid and incapable of supporting himself, thus administering upon his own estate. The record of his death and that of his aged companion read upon the Town Records thus:

"Elizabeth, wife to Quart. John Perkins died Sept. 27, 1684."

"Quart. John Perkins died Dec[r] the 14, 1686."

His family was quite large, consisting of eight sons and one daughter, and perhaps more.

The children of Quart^r John Perkins and Elizabeth, his wife, were:

8 John, b. 1636; m. Lidia; d. 1659.
9 Abraham, b. 1640; m. Hannah Beamsley; d. 27 Apr., 1722.
10 Jacob, b. 1646; m. 1st, Sarah Wainwright; 2d, Sarah Kinsman; d. Nov. 26, 1719.
11 Luke, b. 1649; m. 1st, Eliz. Jaques; 2d, Sarah ——; d. after 1694.
12 Isaac, b. 1650; m. Hannah Knight; d. 1726.
13 Nathaniel, b. 1652; m. Judith ——.
14 Samuel, b. 1655; m. Hannah West; d. 1700.
15 Thomas.
16 Sarah.

3 Thomas (John[1]) was born in England in 1616, came to Boston with his father and others of the family in 1631, being at that time a lad of only fifteen years. He[5] remained there with the family until 1633, when they all removed to Ipswich. Here he was made freeman (the exact date of which is not recorded). At Ipswich he owned Sagamore Hill, a tract of land 170 feet high, surrounded by salt marsh, and having Fox Creek on the east. This hill was probably granted to him by the town. He exchanged this property with his brother John for a house and lot in town. He spent but a few years in Ipswich, removing to the neighboring town of Topsfield. He married there, about 1640, Phebe Gould who was a daughter of Zaccheus Gould of Topsfield. She was born in England in 1620, and was baptized at Hemel Hemp-

[5] We are under obligations to John H. Gould, Esq., town clerk of Topsfield, for much interesting matter concerning Deacon Thomas Perkins, which he has kindly collected from the ancient records of that town, as well as for important information in connection with the numerous descendants of Deacon Perkins, which are to be found upon the town and church record books. This will appear in its proper place.

sted, Sept. 20, 1620. On their marriage, her father gave them 150 acres of land.

Thomas Perkins was chosen Deacon of the Topsfield Church, succeeding first Deeken Howlett; second Deacon Isaac Cummings. No record of time has yet been found of this choice of the church, but it was probably 1677. He was always known upon the records as "Dea. Thomas Perkins."

He was chosen as one of the Selectmen of Topsfield at a town meeting held March 7, 1675–6. Upon the books of the town we find recorded the doings of the Selectmen, which we give as showing the constant supervision the families of our fathers were under.

"At a meeting of the Salaetmen the 18 of september 1677 in Relation to the law concorning tithing men: we have maed choic of Mr Willyem Perkins sener and Daken Thomus Perkins and Sargent Edman Town and Willyen Niguells as tithing men for Topsffeld Daken Perkins is to in spaet thos folowing ffamelis Sargt John Radington, John Willd, John franch, Samuel Howlet, Micall Donell, John Comins, Willyem Howlet, Mr John Brodstret.—Town Records."

"Decon Perkins" was chosen Selectman at the March meetings for 1656–57. He was chosen Tithingman Sept. 18, 1677, and again in November, 1678, "to inspect ani person ore persons that shall profane the sabath and to proseed against ani that shall be falte as the law directs."

Sept. 17, 1680, committee of Deacon Thomas Perkins and others, "these forementioned men are chosen a comiti in the behalfe of the towne to a gree with Mr Danfarth for his continuing here with us at Topsfeild in the work of the ministri and we do farther im power to the comiti to chuse som a mongest themselves or ani other as they shall see meet to goe and speak with the Deputi Governor

"At a lawful towne meeting the 22 March, 1680 or 81, the towne granted liberti to the villagers (Boxford) to bi a third part of the galeri to sit in so that to pay proporsonabel to the ministri as judged meet by Decon Perkins and others."

July 29, 1681. "Deckon Perkins and others are chosen a commitey to discorse with Mr Capen to stay and preach here with us at Topsfield with us a while."

March 7, 1681–2. "Deckon Perkins" chosen a Selectman.

Voted, Oct. 6, 1685. "The Towne manifested by a voate yt they will chose a commitey friendly to treat with Rowley Villagers (Boxford) to see what they will pay towards ye maintnance of or minister by ye yeare."

Voted, "Deackon Perkins (& others) is chosen a commitey to treat with Rowley villagers to see what they will give to wards ye maintnance of or minister by ye yeare and to make return of it to the Towne. Town Records."

Deacon Perkins was a farmer by occupation. We find very frequent mention of his name in the purchase and sale of land in Topsfield and the neighboring towns. His farm and homestead joined that of his brother-in-law, Redington, not far from the Newburyport turnpike. He left at his decease quite a large estate to his wife and sons. His will was signed Dec. 11, 1685, and was proved at Boston, Sept. 10, 1686. He died May 7, 1686. His widow outlived him, though the exact date of her death is not known. The facsimile, here given, was taken from his will.

4 Elizabeth (John[1]) was born in England in 1618. and came to New England in the ship Lion with her parents in 1631. She lived in Ipswich, and probably married her husband, William Sargent,[6] there. The date of her marriage is not known. He was born in England in 1602, was one of the first settlers here, and went from Ipswich to settle in Newbury. He was also among the first to settle in Hampton; from that place he went to Amesbury, where he made a permanent settlement, and died there in 1677, in the seventy-fifth year of his age.

The time of the death of his wife, Elizabeth, was in 1700. His will was made in 1671. The descendants of William and Elizabeth (Perkins) Sargent are now very numerous.

Children of William Sargent and wife Elizabeth were:

Thomas, b. June 11, 1643; m. Rachel Barnes; d. 1705–6.
William, b. m. Mary Colby; d.
Mary, b. m. Philip Chalis; d.

[6] In the history of Amesbury by Joseph Merrill, it is stated as believed that Wm. Sargent came to Virginia in 1608; that while there he married Judith Perkins daughter of John, who died before 1633, leaving him with three daughters. With these he came to Ipswich, Mass., and afterward removed to Amesbury, on its first settlement, and died there in 1677. This could hardly have been so, as John Perkins mentions no daughter Judith or her children in his will, but does mention "Elizabeth, the wife of Wm. Sargent," and her children. This marriage with Judith rests on tradition, and was probably a mistake, though Mr. Merrill believes that Wm. Sargent married two sisters, who were daughters of John Perkins.

5 Mary (John[1]) was born in England in 1620. She came, with others of the family, to America in 1631, and in 1637 she was married at Ipswich to Thomas Bradbury, and removed with him to Salisbury. He died at Salisbury, March 16, 1695. Thomas Bradbury was a representative in 1651 and after. He was recorder of Norfolk Co.; town clerk of Salisbury, and was captain of a military company. His varied acquirements caused him to be elected to fill many places of honor and trust. He was a man of no mean talents; some of the records of Salisbury are in his beautiful hand-writing.

Mary (Perkins) Bradbury was one of those unfortunate people who, in the dark days of witchcraft delusion, was among the accused. She was also convicted, but by the efforts of her friends her execution was delayed, the horrid delusion passed away, and she was discharged. The papers connected with her trial, as well as those of the others, who were, some of them, more unfortunate, have been preserved, and are to be seen on the files in the Clerk of Courts Office in Salem, Mass.

Her defence in answer to the accusations of her persecutors, the testimony of her husband with that of Rev. James Allin and John Pike, her ministers, and the united testimonial of over one hundred of her neighbors and towns-people were all of no avail. These papers show her to have been a most estimable, pious and good woman, and should be recorded in her praise. We copy them from the original:

"The answer of Mary Bradbury to the charge of witchcraft or familiarity with the Devil.—I do plead not guilty. —I am wholly innocent of such wickedness through the goodness of God that hath kept me hitherto. I am the servant of Jesus Christ and have given myself up to him as my only Lord and Saviour, and to the diligent attendance upon him in all holy ordinances, in utter contempt and defiance of the Devil & all his works as horrid and detestable; and have endeavored accordingly to frame my life & conversation according to the rules of his holy word, and in that faith and practice resolve, by the help and assistance of God, to continue to my life's end. For the truth of what I say as to matter of practice, I humbly refer myself to my brethren and neighbors that know me, and to the searcher of all hearts for the truth & uprightness of my heart therein, human frailties & unavoidable infirmaties excepted, of which I bitterly complain every day. Mary Bradbury."

"July 28: 1692.—Concerning my beloved wife, Mary Bradbury, this is what I have to say: We have been married fifty-five years, and she hath been a loving and faithful wife to me. Unto this day shee hath been wonderfully laborious, diligent and industrions, in her place and employment about the bringing up of our family (which hath been eleven children of our own and four grandchildren) she was both prudent and provident, of a cheerful spirit, liberal and charitable. She being now very aged and grieved under her affliction, may not be able to speak much for herself, not being so free of speech as some others may be. I hope her life and conversation have been such among her neighbours as gives a better and more real testimony of her than can be expressed by words. Tho. Bradbury."

"Being desired to give my testimony concerning the life and conversation of Mrs. Bradbury of Salisbury among us wch is as followeth, viz: I have lived nine years at Salisbury in the work of the ministry and now four years in the office of a pastour; to my best notice and observation of Mrs. Bradbury she hath lived according to the gospel among us, was a constant attender upon the ministry of ye word; and all the ordinances of the gospel, full of works of charity and mercy to the sick and poor, neither have I seen or heard anything of her unbecoming the profession of the gospel. James Allin."

"Having lived many years in Salisbury and been much conversant there, according to my best observation and notice of Mrs. Bradbury must needs affirme to what is above written, and give my oath to it if called thereto.

John Pike."

July 22: 1692.

"Concerning Mrs Bradburies life and conversation, We the subscribers do testifie that it was such as becometh ye gospel, shee was a louer of ye ministry in all appearance and a diligent attender upon Gods holy ordinances being of a curteous and peacable disposition and cariag, neither did any of us (some of whom have lived in ye towne with her fifty yeare) ever heare or know that she ever had any difference or falling oute wth any of her neighbors, man, woman, or child — but was alwayes readie and willing to doe for them w^t lay in her power night and day, though wth hazard to her health or other danger. — more might be spoken in her comendation but this for the p^rsent."

The above was signed by 117 men and women of Salisbury.

Mary (Perkins) Bradbury died in Amesbury in 1700, at the age of eighty years.

6 Jacob (John[1]) was born in England in 1624. He married, first, Elizabeth ———;[7] her father's name is not known. The time of their marriage was probably in 1848; she died Feb. 12, 1865, her age being fifty-six years. He afterwards married for a second wife, Damaris Robinson, widow of Nathaniel Robinson, mariner, of Boston. She removed to Boston after the death of Jacob Perkins, and died there, leaving property by will to several children by her first husband. The date of her death was in 1716, and her age at that time was eighty years. At the time of his marriage with the widow Robinson he made a promise to support her during her life; later in life he gave all his property into the possession of his two sons, Jacob and Matthew, on condition that they support both himself and wife during their natural lives. This will appear evident from the following extract from the deed which he gave his sons Matthew and Jacob.

20 March, 1693.

I, Sargt. Jacob Perkins, sen.

"Having grown old & decrepid and not able to manage my farm, I give the other portions of my land to my two sons, Jacob and Mathew, provided they support me & my now wife, with whom I made an agreement when we were married," etc., etc.

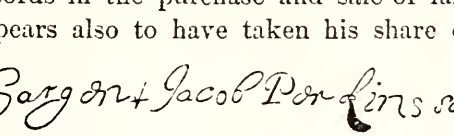
He mentions in his will the portions he had given each of his sons on their marriage.

He was the youngest son, and by his father's will was to come into possession of his homestead[8] and lands after his mother's death. His lands lay at the eastern part of the town, near the river. He was chosen sergeant of the military company of the town in 1664, and was ever after known as sergeant, or as he wrote it, "Sargent Jacob Perkins, se.," which distinguishes him from two others of the same name.

He was a farmer, and his name is often seen upon the records in the purchase and sale of farming lands. He appears also to have taken his share of the duties of a citizen. We give this facsimile of his autograph as it is found as foreman of a jury of inquest, held upon the body of a girl who was found drowned.



His house was struck by lightning on a Sunday in 1671, "while many people were gathered there to repeat the sermon, when he and many others were struck down, and had his waistcoat pierced with many small holes, like goose-shot, and was beaten down as if he had been dead for the present."

Sergeant Jacob Perkins died in Ipswich, Jan. 27, 1699–1700, aged seventy-six years.

[8] The original house, built by the elder John, was destroyed by fire in August, 1668, through the carelessness of a servant, who knocked the ashes from her pipe upon the thatch of an outbuilding. Another house was erected at or near the same spot, which is standing at this day, though in a miserably decayed condition. The well near by has been, and is still called, "Jacob's well."

The names and ages of his children, the death of his wife Elizabeth, and of himself, are taken from his family bible, now in the possession of H. N. Perkins, Esq., of Melrose.

The children of Sergeant Jacob Perkins, sen., and wife Elizabeth were:

26 Elizabeth, b. Apr. 1, 1649; m. Thomas Borman, Jan. 1, 1667.
27 John, b. July 3, 1652; m. Mary Fisk; d. in 1718; æt. 67.
28 Judith, b. July 11, 1655; m. Nath. Browne, Dec. 16, 1673.
29 Mary, b. May 14, 1658; m. Thomas Wells, Jan. 10, 1669.
30 Jacob, b. Aug. 3, 1662; m. 1st, Eliz. Sparks, Dec. 27. 1684; 2d, Sarah Treadwell.
31 Matthew, b. June 23, 1665; m. Esther Burnam.
32 Hannah, b. Oct. 11, 1670.
33 Joseph, b. June 21, 1674; m. Martha Morgan, May 22. 1700.
34 Jabez, b. May 15, 1677; m. 1st, Hannah Lathrop, June 30, 1698; 2d, Charity Leonard, in 1722.

7 Lydia (John[1]) was born in Boston, and was baptized June 3, 1632, as is seen upon the records of the First Church there. She married Henry Bennet, a farmer of Ipswich, at what date is not known, but it is supposed in 1651. She is mentioned as "Lydia Bennet" in her father's will. Little is known concerning her husband. His name is sometimes seen in connection with other members of the family.

"May 12, 1675. John Perkins, Henry Bennet and others have power to act in matter of Jer. Belcher and others of Ipswich." Rec. Colony of Mass. Bay, Vol. 1, p. 36.

Henry Bennet[9] bought a farm of two hundred acres in 1654 of Jonathan Wade, in the southeastern part of Ipswich, where he lived forty years or more. This removed the family to a considerable distance from the old homestead, and may account for the infrequent mention of the name in connection with the affairs of the family.

[9] We are indebted to the research of the late John M. Bradbury, Esq., of Ipswich, for about all that is now known concerning Henry Bennet.

Lydia Bennet is supposed to have died about 1672, as Henry Bennet married a second wife not long after that time. She was Mary (Smith) Burr, widow of John Burr, who was her second husband, her first being Philip Call. She was the daughter of Richard Smith, of Shropham, Co. Norfolk, England. She died Jan. 12, 1707–8. He was living Oct. 3, 1707.

The names of five of his children are known, all by his first wife, Lydia. They were:

Jacob, b. in 1651; m. Sarah ——; d. March 5, 1685–6.
John, b. in 1655; killed at Bloody Brook, Sept. 18, 1675.
William, b. in 1657; living in Ipswich in 1685.
Henry, b. in 1664; m. 1st, Frances Burr; 2d, Margaret ——.
Thomas, b. ; m. Elizabeth —— about 1692; d. in 1700.

NOTE.

The foregoing individuals constitute the first two generations; that is, of John Perkins, sen., and of his sons and daughters. In giving the descendants of the three sons, to whom only the name attaches, it is proposed to take them in order of their ages.

PART I, therefore, will be devoted to the descendants of Quartermaster John Perkins.

PART II, to those of Deacon Thomas Perkins.

PART III, to those of Sergeant Jacob Perkins.

8 John (John,[2] John[1]) was born in Ipswich about 1636. He married Lydia —— about 1658, and died in 1659. Very little is known concerning him, but after his death his widow applied for administration on his estate. The Record of the March term of the Court for 1659 gives us the following:

"John Perkins, Junr, dying intestate, this Court grants administration to Lidua Perkins, widow of her late husband, and further, there being an inventory amounting to £73. 10., and one child new born, the Court doth further order that the widow shall, for the education and bringing up of the child, have the full profit of the whole estate until the child atayne to the age of eighteen years: and then to pay unto her sayd child £14, or at the day of her marriage with her mother's consent, which comes first." We do not learn the name or history of this daughter.

An Inventory, on file, gives a list of farm utensils and household goods and furniture, one musket and sword, etc., amounting to £103. 8. 3. The debts of the deceased were £29. 18. 02., leaving the net sum of £73. 10. 01. for the widow.

The only child of John Perkins, jr., and wife Lidua was:

35 A daughter, b. in 1659.

9 Abraham (John,[2] John[1]) was born in Ipswich in 1640. He married Oct. 16, 1661, Hannah, daughter of William and Hannah Beamsley, of Boston. She was born in December, 1643.

Abraham Perkins was a man of very considerable energy and enterprise, and had the full confidence of his father. He was the oldest son, after the death of his brother John, and acted as his father's attorney in his old age.

It is very probable that his father died at his house, as he had made his home there after the death of his wife. He is said to have built the Ipswich meeting-house, which Hammat says he contracted to do "to the turning of the key." He was at one time an innholder, as appears from his licenses and from two deeds of land he had sold, in which he calls himself an "Innholder." Jan. 2, 1698, "I, Abraham Perkins, Innholder, and Hannah my wife," sell to Capt. Daniel Rindge, of Ipswich, carpenter, 2½ acres of marsh at Plum Island; March 28, 1700–1, "I, Abraham Perkins, Innholder, and Hannah my wife," sell to Col. John Wainwright, 2½ acres of upland and meadow.

He was a representative to the General Court in 1710. He owned and cultivated "Perkins Island," formerly granted to his grandfather, John, sen., and employed his brother Luke to "tend cattle," etc., there, as Luke testifies in a suit between Thomas Borman and Abraham Perkins, that he had lived upon the Island for several years.

The death of Abraham Perkins was very sudden, and took place on the 27th of April, 1722, and was the result of an accident, "he being run over by a tumbril which broke many bones across his breast." At that time he was eighty-two years old.

Abraham Perkins gave all his property, real and personal, to his wife, by his last will, to be disposed of by her to their children at her death.

His widow, who died Oct. 16, 1732, at the age of ninety-one years, makes the following bequests in her last will, as follows: she gives the homestead of her late husband to the three children of her son Abraham; namely, to Joseph, Nathaniel and Abraham; Abraham to have a double share, that is one-half of the house. These three grandsons were then under age. She mentions her son Stephen, but speaks of her son Abraham as deceased; she speaks also of her loving and dutiful son, Doct. John Perkins, as having had his share already. She gives to Sarah, Hannah and Martha, daughters of my son Beamsley; and to Abraham and Sarah, children of my son

Nathaniel; to Hannah Stanford, daughter of my daughter Hannah, the late wife of Daniel Rindge of Ipswich; to John and Mary, children of my daughter Martha Brewer, late deceased; to Joseph and Elizabeth children of my daughter Elizabeth Eveleth, deceased; to my grandson Samuel Ingalls, son of Martha, my said daughter. Her son Stephen she appoints to be the executor of her will, which was signed February 1, 1722–3, and proved in Court, October 23, 1732.

The sudden death of her husband, it may be supposed, prevented him from making such a will as he desired. His will was made the day before he died.

His signature, as here given, was taken from one made Nov. 20, 1684.

The children of Abraham Perkins and Hannah, his wife, were:

36 Hannah, b. March 7, 1662.
37 Abraham, b. Aug. 15, 1665.
38 John, b. Feb. 25, 1667.
39 Beamsley, b. Apr. 7, 1673.

45 Elizabeth, }

10 Jacob (John,[2] John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., in 1646. He married first, Sarah Wainwright in 1667, and she died February 3, 1688; second, in 1688 or 1689, Sarah Kinsman, who was a daughter of Robert and Mary Kinsman. She was born March 19, 1659. He was known as "Corporal," or "Jacob Perkins, jr.," and is also sometimes mentioned as "Jacob Perkins the Maltster," and this was probably his occupation as well as farming. In a deposition given in 1695, concerning some cattle which had strayed from his brother Abraham's island, he says he was at that time forty-nine years old, and had lived at or near Perkins Island the greater part of his life. His father gave him the use of a farm of one hundred acres in Chebacco Parish (reserving to himself the right to dispose of it at his death), this being half of a farm which he bought of William Wittred, carpenter, Aug. 8, 1661. This farm Jacob relinquished to his father for one at Sagamore Hill, and upon which he resided the remainder of his life. He in conjunction with his older brother, Abraham, acted as attorney for their father during the latter part of his life; this trust he afterwards gave up. His father resided with him for awhile after the death of his wife. We find frequent deeds of land sold by him, with the name of "Sarah" as his wife, which was the name of both of his wives. His family was very large, a great proportion being sons, which fact has kept families of the name numerous in Ipswich. The location of his house is still to be seen at Sagamore Hill. He died in 1719. His sons, Jacob and John, were to be executors of his will, which was made Dec. 13, 1718, and was proved in Court Dec. 14, 1719.

The fac-simile was taken from his will, which was made Dec. 13, 1718.

11 Luke (John,[2] John[1]) was born in Ipswich in 1649. He married, April 26, 1677, Elizabeth Jaquith, daughter of Henry Jaquith; it is to be feared that he did not live a very peaceful or happy life with her. She died about 1690, after which he married Sarah ——— about 1692. His wife, Sarah, may have outlived him; the time of the death of neither is certainly known.

Luke Perkins was employed during the early part of his life by his father and brother Abraham. He afterwards carried on the Inn formerly kept by his father. A part of his life was spent upon his brother Abraham's Island, where he was living in 1695, when he states, in a deposition concerning cattle belonging to his brother Abraham, which had strayed away, that he was forty-six years old at that time.

His father made a deed of gift to him of his homestead and other lands, upon certain conditions, which Luke did not fulfil to the satisfaction of his father, and a suit was had, and Luke was obliged, by the order of the Court, to transfer the property again to his father.

An agreement was made by John Perkins, through his two sons, Abraham and Jacob as his attorneys, that, upon Luke's relinquishing all claim to a house and land formerly given him by his father, John, they would convey to him another house and storehouse which stood by the riverside, and half an acre of land. Abraham also promises to pay a bill of Luke's of £7, to Robert Cook, of Boston, and of £7, to Henry Bennet; that Luke shall have a bed and rugge. He was to take his pick of five beds that are in the house. Abraham also agrees to pay the maidservant her quarter's wages, and to give Luke a closebodyed coat, and to pay all debts that Luke contracted while keeping his father's house as a house of entertainment.

This bargain led to an unfortunate suit in Court. Luke repudiating his agreement. Luke lost his case, and went to jail rather than submit to the order of the Court. He was released after giving bonds in the sum of £1000 not to molest Abraham in the possession of his property. This suit took place in March, 1687–8.

In 1688–9, he sold to "Thomas Smith, taylor," his house and storehouse for sixty pounds, silver currency of New England.

There is no mention of any children born by first wife.

Children of Luke and Sarah (———) Perkins were:

61 John, b. May 14, 1693.
62 Sarah, b. Jan. 22, 1694.

12 Isaac (John,[2] John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., about 1650. He married, in 1669, Hannah, daughter of Alexander Knight and his wife Hannah. The widow, Hannah Knight, after the death of her husband, married Robert Whitman, Nov. 9, 1664.

This marriage of Isaac with Hannah Knight does not appear upon the record, but is made evident by the following abstract: "Isaac Perkins & wife Hannah convey to Richard Kimball land in Ipswich which formerly belonged to her father, Alexander Knight, formerly of Ipswich, Feb. 6, 1716."

On the 20 March, 1683–4, his father gave him a deed of a farm of 100 acres in Chebacco Parish, near to what is now called "the Falls;" he had been living there before this deed was made. This was half of the farm his father had bought of William Wittred, carpenter, Aug. 8, 1661; it was owned by a grandson of Isaac in 1790.

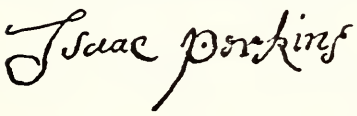
He appears to have been a man who was highly respected by his neighbors, who spoke of him as "Mr. Isaac Perkins, of Chebacco." His name and that of his wife, Hannah, were often attached to deeds of land; she must have died before his will was signed, as no mention is made of her in that instrument, neither of his oldest son John, or of his heirs, as he had probably died young. His two sons, Abraham and Jacob, were executors of his will, which was made Oct. 26, 1725, and proved Feb. 14, 1725–6.

Isaac gave a deed of his farming stock and land in Chebacco to his son Jacob, "in consideration of what duty he is to perform in providing for myself and wife, which he and his heirs stand obliged to perform by a written instrument," from which it would appear that Isaac and Hannah spent their last days in the family of their son Jacob.



The fac-simile, which is here given, was taken from an autograph made September 8, 1700.

Children of Isaac and Hannah (Knight) Perkins were:

63 John, b. July 1, 1670; d. young.
64 Abraham, b. Sept. 15, 1671; m. Abigail Dodge.
65 Hannah, b. Jan. 31, 1673; m. ——— Woodward.
66 Isaac, b. May 23, 1676; m. 1st, wid. Mary Pike; 2d, wid. Lydia Vifian.
67 Jacob, b. Nov. 9, 1678; m. 1st, Mary Cogswell, pub. Sept. 8, 1716; 2d, Susanna Butler, widow, m. Feb. 10, 1728.
68 Elizabeth, b. May 29, 1681.
69 Sarah, b. March 28, 1685; m. ——— Marshall.
70 Mary, b. March 27, 1687; m. ——— Proctor.

13 Nathaniel (John,[2] John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., about 1652. He married Judith ——— in 1684. At this time his father gave him a farm of one hundred acres in Chebacco, adjoining that of his brother Isaac.

In early life he "followed the sea," being probably engaged in fishing, in which business his father and brother Abraham were both interested. After his marriage and the gift of a farm from his father, he appears to have devoted himself to husbandry for a while, but his affairs, evidently, did not prosper, and about 1700 he sold various parcels of his farm.

Jan'y 30, 1691. He and wife Judith, sell meadow in Chebacco to John Wise.

Feb. 27, 1701. He and wife Judith sell to Abraham Perkins, jr., "20 acres of salt marsh and upland in Chebacco, being part of said Nathaniel's homestead where he now lives."

June 23, 1702. He sells more of his homestead to John Burnham.

June 3, 1703. He and wife Judith sell to Adam Cogswell, jr., yeoman, in consideration of nine score and twelve pounds lawful money, certain tenements and tracts of land in Chebacco, with dwelling houses, barnes, orchard, pasture, etc., etc., which land was bounded by land of Isaac Perkins, by "a black birch tree, a red oak, a grape vine, a heap of rocks, and a cherrie tree." After this sale we lose sight of him entirely.

Children of Nathaniel and Judith (———) Perkins were:

71 Nathaniel, b. March 31, 1685.
72 Jemima, b. June 29, 1686.

14 Samuel (John,[2] John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., in 1655. He married in 1677 Hannah, daughter of Twif-ford and Hannah West. He was a cordwainer by trade. He served as a soldier in the Narragansett war, for which he received a portion of land at Voluntown, on the eastern border of Connecticut, which land afterward came into possession of his son Ebenezer, who settled upon it, and in 1735 sold it to John Wildes of Topsfield, Mass.

His father gave him a deed of land in the town of Ipswich on which he had built a house in 1684; this land joined to land given to his brother Luke. In a deed to Luke, his father, Quart^r John, says, "and that Saml Perkins shall not be disturbed in the possession I have given him, and that he hath built upon."

Samuel Perkins died intestate in 1700. His widow, Hannah, was appointed administratrix of his estate, and was also chosen as guardian of his two minor children, John and Elizabeth.

The fac-simile, here given, was taken from a signature made June 19, 1695.

Children of Samuel and Hannah (West) Perkins were:

73 Samuel, b. Nov. 26, 1679; d. abroad, date unknown.
74 Ebenezer, b. Feb. 3, 1681; m. 1st, Hannah Safford; 2d, ——
75 Elizabeth, b. June 13, 1685.
76 John, b. May 12, 1692; d. at Curacoa, W. I.

15 Thomas (John,[2] John[1]). The dates of his birth and death are not known. His father, in a deed of gift to his son Luke, of a very considerable portion of real estate in Ipswich, makes it a condition "that he shall support his mother and brother Thomas, if they should happen to outlive him (John), during the whole of the remainder of their natural lives."

It is to be inferred from the above that Thomas was unable to support himself, being imbecile in body or mind. This mention constitutes all we know of Thomas.

16 Sarah (John,[2] John[1]). The date of her birth is not known. In giving her evidence in a suit against Sergeant Wayte, April 10, 1683, she says: "I, Sarah Perkins, being at my father, Quartermaster John Perkins his house, the last September Court, I see Serg[t] Wayte," etc., etc. It would be not a little singular if a family of eight sons should not have, at least, one daughter also, but as the above affidavit contains all the evidence we find that he had a daughter Sarah, this is open to a doubt, as 10 Jacob, son of 2 John, had at the same time a wife Sarah; it is not, therefore, impossible that it was a daughter-in-law who gives this evidence.

36 Hannah (Abraham,[9] John,[2] John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., March 7, 1662. She married Daniel Rindge, date not known. He appears on the early records as a carpenter (1698), and later (1713) as a shopkeeper, and was an active and useful man in the affairs of the town. They had only one child, the mother dying a few days after her birth; the date of her death being July 9, 1684.

Hannah Perkins, the mother of Hannah Rindge, in her will made in 1722, gives "to Hannah Stanford, daughter of my daughter Hannah, the late wife of Daniel Rindge of Ipswich."

The child of Daniel and Hannah (Perkins) Rindge was:

Hannah, b. June 30, 1684; m. ——— Stanford.

39 Beamsley (Abraham,[9] John,[2] John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., April 7, 1673. He was married in September, 1698, to Hannah Glazier, who Nathaniel Emerson says was his daughter. She was a widow Glazier when married to Capt. Beamsley Perkins. After this marriage, Abraham Perkins, the father of Beamsley, commenced a suit against Rev. John Emerson, of Gloucester, who had married them, for performing the marriage ceremony illegally, inasmuch as they had not before been regularly published. Emerson acknowledged his fault and paid his fine.

Beamsley Perkins was a mariner, and was early in life the owner and captain of a sloop. In 1716, he commanded the brig Ipswich of 100 tons. At the time of the attack of the British forces upon Port Royal, in 1710, he commanded "Her Majesty's ship Dispatch, friggott," mounting twenty guns. He retained his interest in shipping until his death, and was always addressed as Capt. Beamsley Perkins. Two small vessels are mentioned upon the inventory of his property, viz.: "1 skooner valued at £200, a small skooner at £22.— Sea beding £4. Instruments of navigation 30 shillings."

In 1714, he bought of his father, Perkins Island, said in the deed to contain "100 acres more or less." This Island, with the stage and buildings, was valued at £800, and was probably used for the curing of fish; a part of this property he resold to his father the same year. He sold a large farm in 1719 to Thomas Choate for £1400. He had sold a large portion of Perkins Island before his death.

His will was executed Feb. 5, 1718–19, and proved July 29, 1720. His estate was valued at £1587. He gave all his property to wife, Hannah, during her life, to be distributed "to her children" at her death. His wife, Hannah, was appointed executrix.

His death upon the town record reads thus: "Capt. Beamsley Perkins died at his house in Ipswich ye twenty third day of July 1720, being 47 years three mo. and 16 days old." The inscription upon his tombstone makes an error of about two years in his age. He is there stated to be "in ye 45th year of his age."

In the disposition of some of his property after his death, his widow and four of her children by her first husband, Glazier, sign a deed, as well as the children of Capt. Beamsley. They sign as "children of Hannah and legatees of said Beamsley."

Children of Beamsley and Hannah Perkins were:

77 Sarah, bapt. Aug. 12, 1705.
78 Hannah, b. April 22, 1707.
79 Martha, b. March 3, 1709.
80 Lucy, bapt. Nov. 9, 1712; d. Dec. 3, 1712.

40 John (Abraham,[9] John,[2] John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., Aug. 28, 1676. He received his preliminary education at the Ipswich Grammar School, under the instruction of Mr. Daniel Rogers, son of President Rogers of Harvard College. He entered Harvard College in 1691, and was graduated in 1695. He was married first to Mary McFarland Dec. 11, 1697; she was the widow of Duncan McFarland of Boston. It is not known when she died; she was living in Boston in 1714, as upon the 6th of August of that year, Dr. John Perkins and his wife Mary, who was administratrix of the estate of her former husband, McFarland, conveys land in Boston, that formerly belonged to him, to Joseph Mayer. Shortly after leaving college, he studied medicine, and began the practice of that profession in his native town. When the new meeting-house was built in 1700, he, and the other physicians of Ipswich, Drs. Bridgman and Dean, were each assigned a separate pew, as a marked appreciation of the value of their services. He did not remain long in Ipswich, but removed to Boston, and was in practice there for many years, though he resided at intervals again in Ipswich.

After the death of his first wife, he married Mary Checkley, who was the daughter of Anthony Checkley, of Boston. She was born Oct. 14, 1673. The date of their marriage is uncertain, but the fact appears evident by a deed of property given to his son Nathaniel, in which the estate of his "father-in-law, Anthony Checkley," is spoken of. In deeds on record for the conveyance of land, he sometimes calls himself a "physician of Ipswich," and sometimes "of Boston."

In 1740 he executed a deed of gift to his son Nathaniel of all his property, real and personal, including "all his interest in his grandfather Beamsley's farm at Muddy river, and what interest he may have in the estate of his father-in-law, Anthony Checkley, Esq.," and "excepting only debts due to me from my son-in-law, Joseph Ingraham, and my daughter Hannah, and from Joshua Lee." This deed, he states, was given "for love & affection to my son Nathaniel, and in consideration of an obligation he has laid himself under to provide honourably for his mother during her natural life." No provision is made in this instrument for his own support. No will is to be found, or account of administration of his estate, or anything by which we can fix the time of his death. The catalogue of Harvard College says his death took place in 1740.

Children of John and Mary (McFarland) Perkins were:

81 Hannah, b. June 9, 1699.
82 John, b. Jan. 23, 1700.
83 William, b. June 25, 1702.
84 Nathan, b. ab't 1705.

41 Stephen (Abraham,[9] John,[2] John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., in June, 1683, and was published to Mary Eveleth, July 13, 1706. His marriage to her is not found on the records. He was a mariner, and early in life had command of a small vessel engaged in coast and West India trade. He was called Capt. Stephen Perkins. In 1709 he built and commanded the sloop Mary, of 30 tons burthen. After a few years of sea life he, apparently, abandoned it, and commenced trading. He is found buying and selling real estate, and in the deeds calls himself "shopkeeper." His wife, Mary, died about 1717; he married a second time with Margaret Bligh, Sept. 26, 1719; she died May 23, 1754. Among the baptisms we find "Mrs. Margaret Perkins was baptized July 21, 1728."

His death is recorded as having taken place May 15, 1733. His will was executed April 23, 1733, and approved by the court May 29, 1733. In his will he mentions two married daughters and a minor son. He states that he had received £340 on his marriage with his wife Margaret, and returns the same amount to her in his will. His son, Francis, was to receive a watch, and silver-hilted sword and belt, when he should arrive at the age of 21 years. He chose Margaret, his mother, to be his guardian.

The will of Margaret, widow of Capt. Stephen Perkins, was made Dec. 22, 1753, and proved May 27, 1754. In it she gives to her cousin, Margaret Daniels, of Salem, and to her cousins, William and Mary Fullerton, of Portsmouth, N. H., and also to Mary Lowden, jr., for her kindness and care of her. William Fullerton, painter, was chosen to be the executor of her will.

The children of Capt. Stephen Perkins and Mary were:

89 Mary, bapt. in 1708; m. Thomas Norton, jr., Jan. 28, 1728.
90 Stephen, bapt. May 27, 1711; d. young.

42 Abraham (Abraham,[3] John,[2] John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., Dec. 22, 1685. He married Esther Perkins, being published Jan. 10, 1707–8. She was a daughter of Matthew and Esther (Burnham) Perkins, and was born July 17, 1690. He died Feb. 14, 1718.

After his death, his widow, Esther, married Edward Porter, of Boston, afterwards of Salem, being published April 22, 1721. He died before 1728; after which she married her third husband, Dr. Cesar Augustus Harbin, of Ipswich, who may have been of York, Me., as she had land there, which she, perhaps, had from his estate; by him she had a son William, who died in 1760. She made a will in 1751, in which she mentions her son, Joseph, and daughter, Esther. His (Abraham's) mother, Hannah (Beamsley), mentions sons of her son Abraham, viz.: Joseph, Nathaniel and Abraham. Nothing is known of his occupation.

The children of Abraham and Esther Perkins were:

93 Joseph, bapt. Aug. 17, 1712.
94 Nathaniel, bapt. Jan. 3, 1713–14.
95 Abraham, bapt. July 15, 1716.
96 Esther, bapt. about 1717; m. ——— Brown.

43 Nathaniel (Abraham,[3] John,[2] John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass.; date uncertain. Upon the Probate records it is stated, "Nathaniel Perkins, mariner, deceased. Administration on his estate is granted to his father, Abraham," Nov. 16, 1713. On examination of the papers on file, the inventory shows only such property as would belong to a mariner, as "Sea-beding," "Instruments of navigation," and men's clothing, but gives no intimation of his being a married man, or having household property or a family.

In 1722, when Hannah, the mother of Nathaniel, died, she gave in her will "to Abraham and Sarah, children of my son Nathaniel." Upon the town record is found the date of the baptism of Hannah, daughter of Capt. Nathaniel and Esther Perkins, Aug. 26, 1711. Imperfect records leave us in doubt as to time of their marriage, or date of the birth of the children mentioned in the will of his mother.

The children of Nathaniel and Esther Perkins were:

97 Abraham, b.
98 Sarah, b.
99 Hannah, b. Aug. 26, 1711.

He was chosen town clerk of Ipswich, Nov. 27, 1683, and died 1697. His widow, Martha, was administratrix of his estate. After his death she married second, ——— Ingols.

Joseph, b.
Elizabeth, b.

48 Francis (Jacob,[10] John,[2] John[1]) was born at Sagamore Hill, Ipswich, Mass., Dec. 18, 1672. His wife was Elizabeth Eveleth, daughter of Joseph and Mary Eveleth of Chebacco Parish; the time of their marriage is unknown. He was a farmer, and died about 1706. After his death, his widow married George Giddings of Gloucester, as we learn from a deed of land given by Jacob, his father, viz.: 10 acres of land in Chebacco Parish, which he had previously bought of his brother Nathaniel. This land he gave to the two sons of Francis, when they shall arrive at the age of 21 years: if both sons die before that age, then the land was to go to their sister Elizabeth: if all three children die, then the land is to be "for the behoof and benefit of George Giddings, who is about to marry with Elizabeth, their mother." The deed was signed by Jacob and Sarah (Wainwright) Perkins.

He married, first, Elizabeth Kinsman, published March 6, 1713; she died Sept. 27, 1732: second, Mary Dresser, Dec. 6, 1733. He was a husbandman, and always resided upon the Sagamore Hill farm, which had been the possession of his father and grandfather. When his intention of marriage with his second wife, Mary, was published, the entry on the record mentions him as "Jacob at the hill." He died in 1758. In his will, made March 16, 1757, he mentions his wife, Mary, and six of his children as being then alive. His will was proved Jan. 3, 1759. His wife, Mary, was the executrix.

Children of Jacob and Eliz'h (Kinsman) Perkins were:

He was published in Ipswich to Elizabeth Endicott, March 15, 1718, and was married in Boston in June, 1718. She was born May 8, 1695, and was a daughter of Zerobbabel and Grace (Symonds) Endicott, of Boxford. He was a grandson of John Endicott, governor of the Massachusetts Colony.

John Perkins was a husbandman, and inherited some part of his father's land about Sagamore Hill. Many deeds are on record, by which he conveys parts of this estate to others.

Children of John and Eliz'h (Endicott) Perkins were:

117 Sarah, bapt. Feb. 8, 1718.

He was a fisherman, and resided in Ipswich. He, with his brother Westly, sold land near Sagamore Hill, which came from his father's estate.

Nov. 25, 1721. He, with wife Elizabeth, quitclaims

"to loving brother-in-law, Joseph Holland, land that was formerly the estate of our deceased father, William Douton, mariner." His wife, Elizabeth, died Dec. 4, 1763.

Children of Robert and Eliz'h (Douton) Perkins were:

127 Jeremiah, bapt. Sept. 20, 1719.
128 Elizabeth, bapt. Nov. 27, 1720.
129 Mary, bapt. March 10, 1722–3; m. Dan'l Kinsman, Jan. 23, '40.

58 Westly (Jacob,[10] John,[2] John[1]) was born at Sagamore Hill, Ipswich, Mass., Dec. 3, 1697; married Abigail Rindge, pub. Nov. 27, 1725. He was by occupation a fisherman, as we learn from deeds of land sold by him which are now on record. He sold land in Scarborough, Maine, in 1727, which land he had granted him in 1721. He probably resided there awhile, and returned to Ipswich. His home was in Ipswich at the time of his death.

The baptism of only one of Westly and Abigail Perkins' children is found recorded, viz.:

130 Abigail, baptized Nov. 19, 1727; m. Jeremiah Foster, jr.

59 Joseph (Jacob,[10] John,[2] John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., Oct. 9, 1699. He married Elizabeth Fellows, being published Nov. 2, 1728. In deeds for the transfer of land, he calls himself a fisherman.

Joseph Perkins died in 1752. Dec. 9, 1753, his widow was published with John Kinsman. June 7, 1758, she sold, by order of court, "the southeasterly part of the dwelling-house, where Jeremiah Perkins now lives, to James Perkins, joyner, for £53–6–8, which is the estate of the deceased." He died intestate. Administration was granted to his widow.

He, fisherman, sells marsh in Ipswich, near Sagamore Hill, Feb. 16, 1726–7. He sells an acre of upland and marsh near Fox point, which was given him "by the last will of my honored father, Jacob Perkins," March 16, 1626–7.

60 Jeremiah (Jacob,[10] John,[2] John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., Dec. 1, 1701. He was published to Joanna Smith, Nov. 7, 1730. He was for many years a deacon of the First Church, and was highly respected. He died Jan. 18, 1790, at the age of eighty-eight years. He was a cooper by trade.

"Joseph Perkins, fisherman, and Jeremiah Perkins, cooper, buy of Joseph Foster and wife, Sarah, at Ipswich, land near the first parish meeting-house, Jan. 26, 1726. Upon this lot they built a house and resided there."

Felt, in his history of Ipswich, says, "he lost a wife May 25, 1782, in her seventy-first year and left a widow Joanna." This must have been a mistake, as Joanna was his only wife.

Children of Jeremiah and Joanna (Smith) Perkins were:

139 Jeremiah, bapt. April 1, 1733; d. May 1, 1748.
140 Daniel, bapt. Aug. 24, 1735; d. June 1, 1736.

She was born in 1692; they were published Jan. 12, 1711, and were married Jan. 30, 1711. He resided in Ipswich, and was a blacksmith by trade. He bought land in Ipswich of William and Mary Davison, May 9, 1716.

Feb. 27, 1723–4, he sold to Benjamin Stone, "taylor," three acres of land with house and barn for £112, reserving the shop for himself.

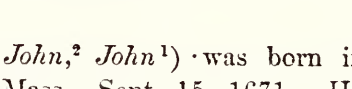
Their son Nathaniel, a weaver, died in 1746. Administration of his estate was given to his father, March 7, 1747.

Children of John and Anna Perkins were:

147 John, b. Dec. 5, 1712; d. Jan. 9, 1712, in Wenham.
148 Nathaniel, b. ; d. in 1746.

64 Abraham (Isaac,[12] John,[2] John[1]) was born in Chebacco Parish, Ipswich, Mass., Sept. 15, 1671. He married Abigail Dodge, Nov. 6, 1701. She was the daughter of Joseph and Sarah Dodge, and was born in Beverly, the place of residence of her parents, Sept. 12, 1681. She was the oldest of a family of eight brothers and sisters. Their marriage took place at Ipswich, Mass.

This fac-simile was taken from an autograph made in 1725.



Abraham Perkins was a farmer in his native place, Chebacco, and acquired a large property in farming lands. His homestead and farm adjoined that of his father. This property he bought of his uncle, Nathaniel, in 1700. His father gave him, by deed of gift, a parcel of upland and marsh, Feb. 21, 1717–18. We have no record of the time of his death, or of that of his wife.

Children of Abra'm and Abigail (Dodge) Perkins were:

149 Abigail, b. 1702; m. Joseph Emerson.
150 James, b. in 1705; m. Margaret Andrews.
151 Isaac, b. in 1707; m. Elizabeth Butler.
152 Abraham, b. in 1708; m. 1st, Eliz'h Ely; 2d, wid. Mary Ely.
153 Hannah, b. in 1709; m. John Butler.
154 Sarah, b. in 1711; m. Jonathan Low.
155 Elizabeth, b. Dec. 30, 1715; m. Wm. Ely, jr.
156 Joseph, b. March 12, 1720; m. Elizabeth Choate.

66 Isaac (Isaac,[12] John,[2] John[1]) was born in Chebacco Parish, Ipswich, Mass., May 23, 1676. He married, first, widow Mary Pike (or Picket) June 3, 1703; at the time of this marriage his father gave him "£100 or other goods, chatels or lands, equivalent thereunto, in consideration that my sonne Isaac doth marry with Mary Pike of Boston, widow, and now of Ipswich." This was to be paid £10 a year, from the day and date of their marriage. This sum he gives "for love & good will that I bear to my sonne & in consideration that ye said Pike do proceed in the matter of marriage with my said sonne Isaac." His wife, Mary, died in 1720. He married, second, Lydia Vifian, of Boston, Oct. 10, 1723; she was the widow of John Vifian, mariner.

He was a shipmaster, and was called Capt. Isaac Perkins. His home was in Boston, and all of his children, who were by his first wife, Mary, were born there. He left a will, giving to his widow £250, that being what she had when he married her; and the remainder, £397, he gave to his two minor children, Hannah and Isaac, who were living at the time of his death. His son Isaac died in Boston, Oct. 13, 1737, at the age of twenty-three years, and was interred in Chebacco.

Capt. Isaac Perkins died in Boston June 14, 1725. William Cooper's diary contains the following entry:

"June 17, 1725, attended the funeral of Capt. Isaac Perkins."

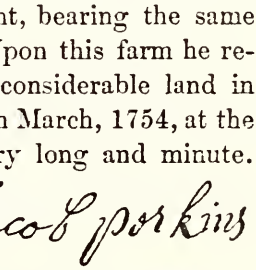
Children of Capt. Isaac and Mary (Pike) Perkins were:

157 Isaac, b. March 9, 1703–4; d. May 13, 1705.
158 Richard, b. Sept. 12, 1705; d. March 25, 1708.
159 Mary, b. March 16, 1706–7; d. before 1725.
160 Hannah, b. April 4, 1708; m. Francis Choate.
161 Isaac, b. in Oct., 1710; d. Oct. 13, 1737.

67 Jacob (Isaac,[12] John,[2] John[1]) was born in Chebacco Parish, Ipswich, Mass., Nov. 9, 1678. He married first, Mary Cogswell, being published Sept. 8, 1716; she died in 1727; second, Susanna Butler, Feb. 10, 1728–9; she was the widow of William Butler, who died May 6, 1723, and was the daughter of William and Susanna Cogswell. She was born in 1689, and died Oct. 1, 1769, aged eighty years.

Jacob Perkins was a farmer, and resided upon the homestead of his father. This farm was given him by his father, Isaac, who says in the deed, "in consideration of what duty he is to perform in taking care of and providing for myself and wife, which he and his heirs stand obliged to do by a written instrument, bearing the same date as these presents," etc., etc. Upon this farm he resided during his life. He owned considerable land in various parts of Ipswich. He died in March, 1754, at the age of seventy-six. His will is very long and minute.

This fac-simile, here given, was taken from an autograph which was made Feb. 14, 1725.



Children of Jacob and Mary (Cogswell) Perkins were:

162 Jacob, b. in 1717; m. Elizabeth Storey, in 1743; d. in 1776.
163 Mary, b. Sept. 25, 1726; d. young.

Children by Susanna (Cogswell) Perkins were:

164 Lucy, b. Oct. 25, 1730; d. in infancy.
165 Francis, b. May 7, 1732; m. 1st, Hannah Cogswell, in 1755; 2d, Martha Low, in 1761.

73 Samuel (Samuel,[14] John,[2] John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., Nov. 26, 1679, and was never married. He was a mariner, and inherited property from his father and his grandmother, Hannah West, of which he never came into possession, as he probably died abroad. When his brother and sister disposed of their interest in this property, they speak of him as probably being at that time deceased.

74 Ebenezer (Samuel,[14] John,[2] John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., Feb. 3, 1681. He married first, Hannah Safford, Aug. 14, 1710, at Preston, Conn.; he married a second wife, but who she was has not been ascertained. He was a farmer, and removed from Ipswich, Mass., to Preston, Conn., where he bought 123 acres of land of John Hill, Oct. 27, 1714, but sold this land again to John Pray in 1716, when he removed to Voluntown, Conn., where he took possession of land which was given to his father, Samuel, in consideration of services rendered by him as a volunteer soldier in the Narragansett war, Nov. 17, 1735. He, then living at Voluntown, sold to John Wildes, of Topsfield, for £26. 8s. 6d., all his father's rights to land in Voluntown. He removed to Coventry, R. I., after the sale of this land, and died there before 1754, as we learn from the following records.

John Perkins of Preston (son of Samuel Perkins of Ipswich, and brother of Ebenezer, of Preston), who was a mariner, died abroad and left a will, giving certain property "to the children of his brother Ebenezer by his first wife."

On July 8, 1754, "Newman Perkins, of Exeter, R. I., Samuel Perkins and Oliver Perkins, husbandman, of Scituate in said R. I., Valentine Perkins, of Oblong, N. Y., husbandman, Ebenezer Perkins, of Coventry, R. I., husbandman, Lemuel and Francis Perkins, of Voluntown, Conn., mariners, children of Ebenezer Perkins, late of Coventry, in the colony of Rhode Island, husbandman, deceased, by his first wife," grant to John Harris, of Boston, power to sell their land, etc., in Ipswich, which lately belonged to their (brother, by mistake of the scribe) uncle John Perkins, of Preston, in the colony of Connecticut, deceased. Another brother, Lemuel, of Voluntown, Conn., sold his interest in this property to Daniel Giddinge, of Ipswich, Gent., "about 9 acres, which is my whole shear."

The marriage of Ebenezer and Hannah is recorded at Preston, as are also the names and dates of the birth of their children, which are as follows:

166 Newman, b. March 8, 1711.
167 Samuel, b. May 18, 1712.
168 Oliver, b. Apr. 29, 1713.
169 Charity, b. July 4, 1714.
170 Ellenher, b. July 26, 1718.
171 Lemuel, b. Apr. 2, 1720.
172 Ebenezer, b. July 1, 1721.
173 John.

76 John (Samuel,[14] John,[2] John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., May 12, 1692. He removed to Preston, Conn., in 1719, to which place his older brother, Ebenezer, had previously gone. He was a mariner, and died in Curacoa, W. I., in 1753. His will, made on shipboard just before his death, was probated in Essex Co., Mass. Before his death, he had sold to his uncle, all his interest in the estate of his grandmother West, and also in the estate of his brother Samuel, who was supposed to be deceased. In his will he gave to his brother Ebenezer's son, John, money he had left in the hands of Edward Richardson, of Newbury; other money left in the hands of Jacob Perkins, of Chebacco; of which he gave him four pistoles, and the rest to his sister Hannah. All his land in Ipswich, and all his interest, when remitted home, were to be divided between the children of his brother Ebenezer "by his first wife." They, with the exception of Lemuel, gave a power of attorney in 1754, to John Harris, of Boston, to sell the property. John Harris, of Boston, was appointed by the court as administrator with the will annexed.

It is not known that John Perkins was ever married.

83 William (John,[40] Abraham,[9] John,[2] John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., June 25, 1702. He married Hannah Crumpton, being published Feb. 1, 1723. She was the daughter of Francis Crumpton, sen., taverner, and Hannah, his wife, and was born in 1705. He was a physician. The name of William Perkins does not appear upon the catalogue of Harvard College, making it improbable that he was graduated there, as were his father and younger brother, Nathaniel. He studied medicine with his father, and practised his profession in Ipswich, where he was known as Doctor William Perkins.

He must have died before Nov. 1, 1731, as at that date his widow, in a deed given in the settlement of the estate of her father, speaks of herself as "the widow of Dr. William Perkins, late deceased."

Children of William and Hannah Perkins were:

174 Hannah, bapt. July 10, 1726; m. John Rust, pub. Nov. 17, '50.
175 William, bapt. Aug. 4, 1728.

84 Nathan (John,[40] Abraham,[9] John,[2] John[1]) was born in Ipswich about 1705. He married Elizabeth Manning, and was published Oct. 23, 1731. He died July 6, 1773. Little is to be learned concerning him from the records.

Children of Nathan and Elizabeth (Manning) Perkins were:

176 Nathaniel, bapt. Apr. 6, 1735.
177 Beamsley, bapt. Dec. 5, 1736.

86 Nathaniel (John,[40] Abraham,[9] John,[2] John[1]) was born in Boston about 1714–15. He was a pupil at the Boston Latin School in 1723, entered Harvard College in 1730, and was graduated in 1734; after his graduation he studied medicine, and practised in Boston. In 1740, his father gave him, by deed of gift, all his property, and he probably succeeded him in his practice.

We have no knowledge of his ever having married. He had a house in Wing Lane, Boston, in 1760, and his name is found, with other citizens of Boston, on a petition concerning the paving of Atkinson street, in 1746.

In 1762 he, with his sisters, children by Mary Checkley, who are mentioned by name, Hannah Norton and Mary Ingraham, widow, unites in a deed of sale of a "certain mill priviledge which our honored grandfather, Anthony Checkley, deceased, purchased of Richard Currier, of Almsbury, Essex Co.—July 21, 1762." This deed was acknowledged in Boston and Roxbury.

We find the following item concerning Dr. Nathaniel. "William Lee Perkins, Doctor,[10] and Nathaniel Perkins, Doctor, are mentioned in the act of confiscation passed in 1778." He died in 1799.

[10] Dr. William L. Perkins was a descendant of Rev. William Perkins, of Topsfield, and was a son of another Dr. John Perkins, of Boston.

91 Elizabeth (Stephen,[41] Abraham,[9] John,[2] John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., and baptized Oct. 18, 1713. She was published to Capt. Elias Lowater, Oct. 16, 1731, and married Nov. 10, 1731. He was a widower at the time of their marriage, having before married with Sarah Daniels, of Salem, Oct. 27, 1725. It is to be supposed, from his title, that he was a master-mariner. They had one child if not more.

Child of Elias and Elizabeth (Perkins) Lowater was:

Mary, b. ab't 1733; m. Nath. Perkins, jr., pub. Feb. 26, 1757.

92 Francis (Stephen,[41] Abraham,[9] John,[2] John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., and was baptized Jan. 8, 1715. He married Martha Quarles, being published Oct. 17, 1747. He was mentioned in his father's will, and a sword, belt and watch were to be given him, when he shall have come of age. He resided in Ipswich, and was a shopkeeper. The names of only two of their children are known. They were:

178 Francis, bapt. Sept. 4, 1748; d. Dec. 30, 1779.
179 Martha, bapt. Oct. 2, 1758; d. Nov. 28, 1799.

93 Joseph (Abraham,[42] Abraham,[9] John,[2] John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., and was baptized Aug. 17, 1712. His wife's name was Martha ———, but no intimation is given by the records as to the time or place of their marriage.

His mother, Esther, in her last will, gives "to Esther, the daughter of my son Joseph." Joseph was a blacksmith by trade, as we learn from one of his deeds of real estate. He early left Ipswich to settle in Scarborough, Me.; he afterwards removed to Falmouth, in the same state, and returned again.

In October, 1763, he sold to his brother, Nathaniel, who was a ship-joiner in Ipswich, his portion of the homestead of his grandfather, Abraham. That estate was to be divided between the three sons of his father, Abraham, by a provision made in the last will of his grandmother, Hannah.

Of his children we know but little. Upon the records of the Probate Court for the county of Essex, Vol. 30, p. 221, we find the following entry: "Guardianship of Abraham and Esther Perkins, under 14 years, children of Joseph Perkins of Scarborough, in the County of York, was given to Martha, widow of the deceased, May 8, 1752," which was shortly after his death.

Children of Joseph and Martha Perkins were:

180 Esther, b. ; m. —— Elwell.
181 Abraham, b.

94 Nathaniel (Abraham,[42] Abraham,[9] John,[2] John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., and baptized Jan. 3, 1713. He married, first, Hannah Holland, being published Nov. 8, 1735; she was the daughter of John and Elizabeth Holland, was born Aug. 13, 1718, and died May 13, 1736, being only seventeen years and nine months of age. Her death took place only one week after the birth of her only child. He married, second, Anna Harris, Sept. 15, 1737; she died March 20, 1772. He must have married a third time, as we learn from a deed of land given July 20, 1776, viz.: Nathaniel Perkins and wife, Elizabeth, sell to Joseph Fowler, jr., innholder, 135 rods of upland on Green Lane.

His last will was made May 18, 1776, and proved Sept. 3, 1776. He was by trade a ship-joiner, as stated in his will, in which his wife, Elizabeth, and all his children are mentioned.

Child of Nathaniel and Hannah (Holland) Perkins was:

182 Hannah, b. May 6, 1736; m. —— Glyde.

Children of Nath'l and Anna (Harris) Perkins were:

183 Anna, b. July 10, 1738; m. ——— Pulsifer.
184 Elizabeth, bapt. Dec. 2, 1739; m. ——— Hodgkins.
185 Mary, bapt. March 14, 1741; m. ——— Holland.
186 Nathaniel, bapt. Apr. 15, 1744; d. Feb. 2, 1828.
187 Esther, bapt. Aug. 4, 1745; m. ——— Stone.
188 Abraham, bapt. June 14, 1747; d. Nov. 2, 1842.
189 Abigail, bapt. June 15, 1748; d. in infancy.
190 Abigail, bapt. March 18, 1749; m. ——— Spiller.
191 Sarah, bapt. Dec. 1, 1751; m. ——— Pulsifer.
192 Joseph, bapt. July 24, 1757.

100 Elizabeth (Francis,[48] Jacob,[10] John,[2] John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., in 1698. She removed to Gloucester at the time when her mother, Elizabeth, married George Giddings of that place; there she married Jonathan Ingerson (or Ingersoll), of Gloucester, June 14, 1717. Nothing has been certainly ascertained concerning him or his occupation, but it is very probable that he, like most of the men of Gloucester, was a mariner.

Children of Jonathan and Elizabeth Ingerson were:

Jonathan, b. Aug. 3, 1719.
Francis, b. July 4, 1721.
Perkins, b. Sept. 14, 1723.
Lucy, b. June 26, 1725.
Simeon, b. Nov. 2, 1727.
David, b. June 18, 1735.

102 Benjamin (Francis,[48] Jacob,[10] John,[2] John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass,, in 1700. He removed to Gloucester with his mother in 1708. He married there Mary Robinson, Feb. 17, 1727–8; she was the daughter of Andrew Robinson, of Gloucester. He was a mariner, and on the records is called "captain." He acquired considerable property, both real and personal, in Gloucester. His will, which was signed Dec. 8, 1744, and proved May 1, 1749, gives to each of his children five shillings, besides making provision for their support and education, and a legacy upon their arriving at the age of eighteen years, or marrying. He gives the remainder of his estate, of all kinds "to my wife, Mary, as long as she shall continue my widow, and, at her death, the remainder shall be divided among my children by my wife, Mary."

The inventory of his property contains, among other items,—"1 Negro wench and 2 children, £75, 1 Negro-bed and furniture, 35s, One quarter part of ye Crown Bowl Tavern house, £112-10-00.—Half a pew in ye new meeting-house, £7." His wife, Mary, was to be the executrix of his will. He died in April, 1749.

Mary, widow of Capt. Benjamin Perkins, made a will which was signed March 18, 1759, at which time she says she is sick of body. She provides in this will for each of her daughters by giving them a portion for their education, and fitting them off with furniture, when they shall be married. "Being blind and weak and unable to set my hand to this instrument," she desires that James Parsons, Doct. Plummer, Capt. Andrew Giddings and Daniel Witham, would be witnesses to her assent, which she gave upon the will being distinctly read unto her. Her will was proved April 23, 1759.

Children of Benjamin and Mary Perkins were:

193 Francis, b. Dec. 18, 1728; d. before 1744.
194 Benjamin, b. Apr. 1, 1734.
195 Mary, b. July 14, 1736; m. Alex. Smith; d. Sept. 13, 1769.
196 Elizabeth, b. July 8, 1738; m. Wm. Goodwin, Feb. 5, 1759; d. Sept. 13, 1760.
197 Judith, b. June, 1740; d. before 1760.
198 Sarah, b. in March, 1742.
199 Hannah, b. May 28, 1744; m. Dan'l Gardner, June 20, 1765; d. before Sept. 1, 1770.

103 Jacob (Jacob,[54] Jacob,[10] John,[2] John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., and baptized May 8, 1715. He married Mary Fuller, was published Feb. 9, 1739–40, and married March 19, 1740. He is mentioned in his father's will, which was made in 1759, as having had his full proportion of his property.

Imperfect records prevent our gaining much information concerning him. The birth of only one child can be distinctly ascertained from the list of births, though he may have had others.

Child of Jacob and Mary (Fuller) Perkins was:

200 William, bapt. Dec. 28, 1740. see E. Pris p. 16

121 Robert (John,[56] Jacob,[10] John,[2] John[1]) was baptized in Ipswich, Mass., Aug. 25, 1728. He married, first, Elizabeth Brown, of Ipswich. They were published April 6, 1753, and married July 19, 1753. She was the daughter of James Brown, of Ipswich, storekeeper. She died Dec. 4, 1763. He married, second, Sarah ———, the time of this marriage is not known. She was living at the time of his death. He is called a husbandman, in his deeds. At the time of his death he had the title of Captain.

July 19, 1753. He bought of Abraham Tilton "a certain mesuage, consisting of half a house, half a barn and half a well, situated upon Meeting-house Hill, Ipswich."

Oct. 29, 1772. He "and his wife, Sarah," sold to the county of Essex, a strip of land for a roadway.

Feb. 5, 1772. He bought of Thomas Boardman 5 acres of upland for £24–2–7.

Feb. 1, 1773. He and his wife, Sarah, sold to Timothy Thornton, of Boston, mast-maker, 5 acres and more, of his land in Ipswich, adjoining his house-lot.

Feb. 17, 1773. Timothy Thornton and wife, Eunice, petition the court to appoint a committee to divide certain lands in Ipswich, which she held in common with the children of her deceased sister, Elizabeth, late wife of Robert Perkins.

He died May 22, 1797, intestate; his estate was found to be insolvent, and his property was divided, pro rata, among his creditors, reserving only to Sarah, his widow, her thirds. The inventory of his property showed him to have been a farmer.

Children of Robert and Eliz'h (Brown) Perkins were:

201 John, bapt. Apr. 7, 1754; deceased.
202 Elizabeth, bapt. June 1, 1755; m. Jos. Brown, of Haverhill, Dec. 3, 1779.

He was the son of Stephen and Lydia Kinsman, and was baptized Oct. 23, 1720. He died about March 11, 1746. After his death his widow may have married Abraham Carter, of Gloucester, Aug. 23, 1750.[11]

[11] Kinsman Genealogy.

(Elizabeth, the mother of James Perkins, after the death of her husband, Joseph, is said to have married with John Kinsman, who was the father of Hannah.)[12] He married second, Mary, widow of William Phillips, in 1793. James Perkins left a will at his death which was proved in December, 1818, in which he gave all his property to his wife, Mary, during her life. She died April 3, 1830; her maiden name was Calef. He died in 1818.

Children of James and Hannah (Kinsman) were:

208 James, bapt. Aug. 14, 1763; m. Martha Patch; pub. Feb. 7, 1780. They resided at Nobleborough, Me., in 1790. She was the daughter of Samuel and Martha (Brown) Patch, of Ipswich.

209 Joseph, b. Aug. 20, 1765; d. young.

210 Joseph, bapt. Feb. 7, 1768.

211 Isaac, bapt. Sept. 23, 1770.

136 John (Joseph,[59] Jacob,[10] John,[2] John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., May 10, 1741. He married Elizabeth Hodgkins in 1766. He was probably a mariner, and resided in Ipswich. She was born in 1743, and died June 9, 1816, at the age of seventy-three years.

He was an ardent patriot, and a brave and active soldier in the war for the independence of the American colonies; he entered the army as a lieutenant in the company, under command of Capt. Wade, which was gathered mostly in the vicinity of Ipswich; he afterwards rose to the rank of colonel. He was in the army at the battle of Bunker's Hill, and in many other engagements, and was present at the capture of Burgoyne's army. He was afterward a representative from Ipswich to the general court, from 1810 to 1816. He was married three times. His first wife was Joanna Webber; his second, Sarah Perkins, as above stated; his third was a widow Treadwell. He is said to have had a family of sixteen children. About the time of his marriage, Jan. 23, 1732–3, his father gave him, by deed of gift, a portion of land in Chebacco. He removed from Ipswich to the town of Lyme, Conn., and, at that time, he sold to his brother, Isaac, the same parcels of land, which had been given him by his father. His wife, Margaret, was dismissed from the church in Chebacco, with letters of recommendation to the third church in Lyme, Conn.; the record of this event is dated upon the church books April 25, 1736, which gives the time of their removal.

He was a farmer by occupation.

He, with his brother-in-law, John Butler, who had married his sister Hannah, bought 294 acres of land in the town of Lyme, March 30, 1736.

His family was very large, but only two of his children were born before he left Ipswich.

whom were under eighteen years of age, and these were to be supported until they should be of that age; he also speaks of "my son Abraham," who was then his only son. His son, Abraham, and his wife, Elizabeth, were chosen by him to be the executors of his will. He died Oct. 19, 1774.

She was the daughter of Major Daniel Ely, of Lyme, and was born in 1718. She died Feb. 21, 1759, at the age of forty-one years. After the death of his wife, Elizabeth, he married a second time to Mary Ely; she was the widow of Richard Ely; her maiden name was Person, or Pearson. Their marriage took place July 15, 1759.

He was chosen a deacon of the church in Lyme. By occupation he was a farmer.

The will of Deacon Abraham Perkins was signed April 3, 1786, and proved Sept. 11, 1786. At this time his wife, Mary, was living. In his will he mentions his children as follows: Francis, William, Abraham, jr., Betty Mather, Daniel, Samuel, Sarah Pratt, Joseph and Benja-

Concerning Elizabeth (Perkins) Ely, one of her grandchildren, Smith Ely, jr., Esq., says, "she is held in peculiar veneration by her descendants, in consequence of certain traditions, which show her to have been a woman of unusual force of character and sterling integrity." He mentions the following incident, showing her conscientiousness in what she considered her duty. "Shortly after their settlement in New Jersey, her husband was financially ruined, or nearly so, in consequence of being surety for his brother, and his property was levied upon. The officers who made the seizure advised Mrs. Ely to secrete a silver tea service, which she had inherited from her parents, but she refused to do so."

He married Elizabeth Choate, of Chebacco. They were published Jan. 7, 1743. She was a daughter of Lieut. Thomas Choate, and was born Aug. 2, 1723. She died Oct. 4, 1800.

He was a mariner, and at one time was captain of a fishing vessel, buying his stores, lines, hooks, etc., and disposing of his cargo of fish in Marblehead. After leaving the sea, he engaged extensively in tanning and shoemaking in Chebacco.

On the 18th of April, 1743, Joseph Perkins and Thomas Choate, jr., bought, for £928, O. T., twenty-six acres of land of Francis Cogswell, tanner, and Hannah, his wife: one-half of this land was to go to said Thomas, and the other half to said Joseph. From the bounds, as given in the deed, which is quite long, it was evidently land that had been used by its former owner for tanning purposes. This was, probably, where he commenced his business as a tanner.

Later in life he kept a house of entertainment in Chebacco, Ipswich, and was known on the records as an "Innholder." He took an active part in church matters, and was chosen clerk of the church, of which Rev. Mr. Cleaveland was pastor, on its first organization; he was also its treasurer. He died April 4, 1805, at the age of eighty-five years. He was highly respected by his townsmen.

His father left him, by his will, one-half of his farm, after deducting his widow's portion; the other equal portion was given to his half-brother, Francis.

By his will he gave all his personal property to his wife, Elizabeth, and also 15 acres of land bounded north by the land of Isaac Perkins; of other real estate, she was to have the use of one-third while she lived; the other two-thirds he gave to his only son, Jacob, who was not to come into possession of it until he was twenty-one years old. To each of his three daughters he gave sums of money, which were to be paid by his son, Jacob, after he should arrive at the age of twenty-one years. His widow, Martha, resided in Lunenburg, after the death of her husband, until Feb. 8, 1826, when she removed to Salem, Mass., and died at the house of her son, David, May 4, 1831, at the age of ninety-two years.

In 1774 a military company was organized in Chebacco, of which he was chosen ensign. In 1776 he was made [13] It is with some hesitation that we here offer the suggestion, that the names given as children of Benjamin Perkins, jr., of Gloucester, were, in fact, such as we have stated; but as he was the only person of the name, that we know of, living in Gloucester at the time, who could have sustained that relation, we venture to give it, with the hope, that if wrong, it may be detected and corrected.

The records of Gloucester, like those of many other towns at that period, were very imperfectly kept, and we must, at times, venture upon the most plausible inference, until the truth is ascertained.

"Mr. David Perkins, 88 yrs. 6 mos. 28 days. Funeral this afternoon at 2½ o'clock, at No. 18 Lynde street.

Mr. Perkins was born at Chebacco Parish in Ipswich (now Essex), Sept. 24, 1770. He came to Salem when a boy, and learned the trade of a blacksmith, as an apprentice to the late Mr. Joseph Eveleth. Since then, he has always resided in Salem, one of the most worthy and estimable of that best and useful class of citizens whose "post of honor is a private station." Never ambitious of any other distinction than that of doing his whole duty, industrious, and even laborious, in his calling, honest and high-minded in all his dealings, conscientious in all the relations of life, without reproach, and at peace with all the world, he has pursued the even tenor of his way, with the sincerest respect of all who knew him, and has gone from among us, full of years and of honor. Until within a very short period, he has enjoyed a remarkable degree of bodily health, while his mental faculties were preserved in their full vigor to the last. Not even the distress and sufferings of an exceedingly painful disease could extort from his lips a single murmur of complaint, but everything was endured with the most gentle and unyielding patience. The father of a numerous family, upon whom he had bestowed the inestimable blessings of an admirable training, and the example of a blameless life, he peacefully breathed his last among his children, sustained by the consolations of his religion, and leaving to them the priceless inheritance of an honored and honorable name."

"Major Gaius Perkins died in South Woodstock, March 3, 1870, aged ninety-one years and six months. His long life was not more remarkable for the number of its days than for the wonderful preservation, to its very close, of the faculties and spirit of youth. He was not, indeed, exempt from the weariness of age, but not one of his senses was materially impaired; his judgment remained adequate to the transaction of business, while his heart was as young as ever; and his interest in passing events, whether of the neighborhood or the nation, was undiminished.

Naturally social, he was to the last a genial companion for all, and his beautiful old age was a perpetual joy to the home in which children's children rose up to call him blessed. His favor was extended to all good enterprises, and he always heeded the injunction to 'follow after the things that make for peace.'

A life-long and active Universalist, his venerable form was, until very recently, familiar in the gatherings of the denomination far and near. He made the first and largest subscription in Vermont, for the Green Mountain Central Institute,[19] and gave more than any others to sus-tain our school at South Woodstock. It was hardly too much to say that, as his last days were his best, so like the evening twilight were his lingering years. Honored and loved by a multitude of friends, his memory will long be cherished in their hearts, while he, departing from the earth at peace with man and God, and now, united with the great company of the redeemed, shall dwell forever in the mansions of the blest."

He was compelled to relinquish active business on account of a painful surgical disease. After an operation, he so far recovered his health that he was able to act for a while as agent for the American Bank Note Company, and travelled in the south and west; but ill health again caused him to retire from active life. He died in Hamilton, Mass., Aug. 13, 1873. He was never married.

He was in early life employed in the office of the Clerk of Essex County Courts, which position he gave up to accept that of book-keeper in the Exchange Bank, of Salem, on its first opening. His health failing, he gave up all business for a while, but afterwards became a partner with his brother, David, in the drug business in New York City. They were, with others, financially ruined by the great fire in New York in 1836. For the last twenty-six years of his life, he was Receiver of the Mass. Hospital Life Insurance Company, of Boston. The close and unremitted duties of that office induced softening of the brain, of which he died, Nov. 1, 1864. He was never married.

He passed his early life as a clerk in the store of his brother, Benjamin, in Hanover, N. H. He was afterwards, for a few years, in Utica, N. Y., and in the drug business in New York City, in which interest he made a voyage to Cartagena. The larger part of his active life has been spent in the city of Philadelphia; at first in the book trade, and subsequently as treasurer of the American Bank Note Company, and as agent of the American Sunday School Union. She was always an active worker in the local charities of her day, and was for many years one of the directors of the Seaman's Widow and Orphan Association, and also its president. The following resolutions, passed by that Society at the time of her death, will show their appreciation of her worth.

July 10, 1873. "Resolved, that the managers of the Seaman's Widow and Orphan Association feel deeply the great loss the society has sustained in the decease of its late president, Mrs. Mary P. Ives, remembering the great interest which, for the whole of its existence, she has taken in its welfare, and her unwearied labors in its behalf, and they would offer their warmest sympathy to the family of Mrs. Ives in their affliction, praying that He who has taken their beloved to His heavenly rest, may give them a foretaste of the blessed peace which she now enjoyeth."

He was a bookbinder by trade, which he followed for many years. He was also a partner, with his older brother, under the name of W. & S. B. Ives, upon the first establishment of the "Salem Observer" newspaper. They also carried on a bookstore in Salem for twenty-seven years. He has served in both branches of the city government for several years, and was president of the council in 1858. He was a representative to the State Legislature in 1853–54. In Africa, he acted as secular agent for the mission at Cape Palmas until 1841, when failing health compelled him to return to his native land. During the three following years he studied medicine in Boston, and received the degree of M. PART SECOND.

DESCENDANTS OF

DEACON THOMAS PERKINS.

PREFACE.

Two years ago we published the first part of the genealogy of John Perkins of Ipswich; this contained all that was to be found concerning him and also his three sons and three daughters; and the reader is referred to the first twenty pages of that part for this information.

The larger portion of part first was given to the descendants of the first son, Quartermaster John Perkins, as far as the ninth and tenth generations.

In pursuance of the plan then given (see page 21, part one) we now issue the second part, containing the descendants of the second son, Deacon Thomas Perkins, whose residence was in Topsfield, Mass.

On the death of Thomas Perkins, his farm was divided, by his will, among his sons, who, like the father, were farmers, and for several generations their descendants followed the same honorable business, and their farms were to be found near the old homestead.

Besides devoting themselves primarily to husbandry, they had, also, in most instances, some useful trade to which their spare time could be devoted and which gave them employment during the long winters. They may, perhaps, be said to have been a race of farmers; many of them are cultivating to-day the same acres as did their fathers two centuries ago. Some of their descendants left the old homestead and settled in adjacent towns, and have gradually gone still farther off, until at the present day they are to be found scattered over all the northern states of the Union, from Maine to California; and, though of one blood, they have lost, in very many cases, all traces of their connection and regard each other as utter strangers.

In collecting and arranging names of the earlier members of this family, no little difficulty was experienced from the fact that their names were found upon the records in close connection with those of the descendants of the Rev. William Perkins who was of a different family, but who settled in Topsfield about the same time.

The separation of the members of these two distinct families has, however, been satisfactorily accomplished by reference to the probate records and deeds of Essex county and to the town and church books.

It may here be mentioned that at the present day there are few, if any, of the descendants of the Rev. William Perkins in Topsfield, and, we believe, none bearing the name.

Concerning the descent of John Perkins, sen., no additional facts have come to hand since the publication of part one. There is no reason to doubt that it was from Pierre de Morlaix, as is stated in the preface to that part to which we would again refer the reader.

Two interesting letters, having a bearing upon the early history of the family in England, may be found in a recent number of the Historical Transactions of the Essex Institute. These letters were written by A. T. Perkins, Esq., of Boston, who has recently visited the places in England supposed to have been the home of our ancestors.

By the plan upon which this book is arranged, any descendant of Thomas Perkins may easily and surely trace his or her descent through the several generations to the first emigrant ancestor, by simply following the numbers attached to their names.

Though this book is, merely for convenience, written and published in separate parts, it must not be forgotten they are but parts, and that it is only when they are united that the book will be complete. Many facts are given in one part only, as the family of John Perkins, sen., which is to be found only on the first twenty pages of part one; and much that is also of great interest can be found only in the preface to that part. It is, therefore, desirable that all who are in any way interested should possess all the parts.

One part more only now remains to be issued to complete the design as stated upon page 21 of part one — that of the descendants of the youngest son, Jacob,— which will, we trust, appear in due time.

The kindest acknowledgments of the author are due to those members of the family who have so willingly and cheerfully answered his letters of inquiry and have manifested so lively an interest in the progress of his work; and, particularly, are his thanks due to his friend, John H. Gould, Esq., of Topsfield, who has been indefatigable in his efforts to furnish all desirable aid, and whose interest in the work was undiminished until it was completed.

127 Essex St.

THE FAMILY OF JOHN PERKINS OF IPSWICH.

PART II.

DEACON THOMAS.

In the first part of this genealogy of the family of John Perkins[1], sen., of Ipswich, Dea. Thomas Perkins[3] was mentioned among his children as his second son and an account of him, such as has been collected from the old records, was there given at some length, to which we would refer the reader, as also for what could be learned concerning his father, John Perkins[1], senior.

We now commence the second part, or what relates exclusively to the descendants of Dea. Thomas Perkins[3]. Before doing this, a short abstract will be here given, as an introduction, which will be of interest to those who may not have access to part one, but all who are descended from John, sen., would do well to possess part one as well as two.

Deacon Thomas Perkins[3], the second son and second child of John, sen., and Judith ——— Perkins, was born in England (probably in the town of Newent, in Gloucestershire) in 1616, and, with his parents and their entire family of four children beside himself, came to Boston in 1631. The family removed from Boston to Ipswich in 1633. He resided there only a few years, during which time he had received a grant of land in Ipswich from the colony; this he shortly after sold to his brother John and others, and removed to "New Meadows" or what is now the town of Topsfield,[1] where he engaged in farming.

[1] 1650. Topsfield incorporated and taken from Ipswich and Salem; called first New Meadows.

He married Phebe Gould about 1640. She was the oldest child of Zaccheus and Phebe Gould of Topsfield. She, like her husband, was born in England; her baptism is recorded at Hemel Hempstead, Sept. 27, 1620, and it is probable that her birth was only a few days before this date, as it was the custom of that time to baptize children within a week or two of the time of their birth.

At the time of the marriage of Thomas Perkins with Phebe Gould, her father gave them, by "deed of gift," a farm of 150 acres of land in the central part of Topsfield upon which he probably resided until July 6, 1660, when he purchased a farm of Richard Swain containing 227 acres, "more or less," and upon this farm it is probable he spent the last days of his life. This farm was bounded on the west by the land of Zaccheus Gould, his father-in-law. Other bounds fix this farm as being mostly to the eastward of the road now leading from Topsfield to Wenham and upon Ipswich river; upon a road passing through this farm many of his descendants have resided and do so to this day; old bricks are ploughed up upon the spot where his house is believed to have stood.

Thomas Perkins was a farmer during the whole of his life; he certainly had the respect and esteem of his fellow citizens who elected him to fill many honorable positions in the church and town.

He was chosen to be one of the selectmen of the town in 1656 and was also one of the "tything men" in 1677.

He was chosen Deacon of the Church in Topsfield about 1677 (the date of this choice is not exactly ascertained); after this he was known as "Deacon Thomas Perkins" upon the records of the town. He died in the year 1686.

We give a copy of his will, which was found in the probate office of Suffolk County, where it was recorded by order of Sir Edmund Andros.

Will of Dea. Thomas Perkins.

"The last Will and Testament of Deacon Thomas Perkins senior. In the name of God Amen. I Thomas Perkins senior, of Topsfield, living in the county of Essex in New England, being weak in body but perfect in understanding, do commit my soul unto the hands of God and Jesus Christ, my blessed Redeemer, hoping in and through his merits to receive a blessed resurrection: do dispose of my estate as followeth.—My Will and desire is that my Wife might dwell in my house along with my sons, either with Thomas or Timothy, if they can possibly agree, for I do think it will be best for them to carry on together: and if they cannot agree together, then I give to my wife, Phebe Perkins, six pounds a year, to be paid her by my two sons Thomas and Timothy, so long as they keep together, and when they part then Thomas and Timothy and Elisha is to pay, each of them, forty shillings a year to her for her maintenance so long as she continues a widow. And I also give my wife, Phebe Perkins, two cows which shall be kept by the charge of the Executors for their mother's use so long as she is a widow.

And I do also give to my wife, Phebe Perkins, a bed and all furniture thereunto belonging, and half the household stuff, to her and to be at her dispose.

I do give to my three sons, namely, Thomas, Elisha, and Timothy all the farm I do live on, to them and their male heirs together. I do give to my son Elisha the norwest end of my farm, bounded within two rods of the west and north side of the spring that is by my son Elisha's field, and the line to run from two rods of that spring, forementioned, upon a N. E. point, till it comes to my brother Reddington's land, and so two rods from the forementioned spring, his bounds is to run upon a S. W. Point till it comes to Jacob Towne Senior, his land. And I do give to my sons, Thomas and Timothy, all the rest of my farm, forementioned, to be equally divided between them except the meadow: And I do also give to my son Thomas two acres of meadow lying beyond the clay pits, next Mr. Bradstreet's hill. And I do give to my son Zaccheus four acres of Meadow, out of my forementioned farm, his lifetime, and if he hath a son it shall be his sons. And all the rest of my Meadow I do give to my three sons namely Thomas, Elisha and Timothy.

My thirty acre lot lying over the river I do also give to my grandchild, Thomas Perkins, my son Johns sone, or thirty pounds if he liveth till he marryeth or be of age. And Thomas and Timothy and Elisha is to pay him this Thirty pounds or the forementioned lot.

And I give to my son Zaccheus the farm which he liveth upon, which I had of my father, Gould, to be his and his male heirs forever, provided he pays sixty pounds to the Executors or their assigns, and if he will not pay, then he shall have but half of it.

I do also give to my daughters children forty pounds to be equally divided among them.—I do also give to my son, Joseph Towne, sixteen acres of land lying by Serg. Jacob (Towne's) land at the northwest end of the Long Hill, and sixteen pounds more which is to be paid him by the Executors.

I do also give to my daughter, Judith, forty pounds and a bed and all furniture belonging thereunto, and one Cow.

I do further give to my son Thomas all the housing after the death of his mother. And while she liveth a widow she is to have use of a room, which she pleases. And if Thomas and Timothy can not agree to live together in those housing which are already built, then Thomas shall pay to his brother Timothy three parts of four toward the building of Timothy an house of the same bigness as his brother Elisha's House. I also give to my son Timothy all my cattle except my two steers coming three, which the said steers I give to my son Elisha, only my son Elisha shall give to his brother Timothy one of his oxen when he puts them off for fatting.

And I also will and give to my wife Phebe Perkins the old white mare for use. And I also give to my son Timothy the young mare and colt, only his mother shall have the use of her if she stands in need of her. And my will is that all the sheep that I have shall be divided betwixt my wife and Timothy, and Timothy shall keep them, and when his mother marrieth or dies, then Timothy shall have them all.

I also give to my son Elisha's son Thomas one calf.—I do also give to my son Timothy and his mother all the swine for their provision for the year ensuing the date hereof.

My will is, if it may be, that Thomas and Timothy carry on the farm together, one to have half the improved land and one the other half, and likewise pastures without dividing, and orchards; and when Thomas and Timothy part then my will is that one quarter of the income of the orchard shall be my son Elisha's. Also my will is that my cart and ploughs and chains shall be for Thomas and Timothy's use for the carrying on of the farm.

And I do ordain and constitute my sons Thomas and Timothy, to be my lawful executors, for to receive all debts and to pay all debts. And my will is that my wife shall have her salary every year duly paid her, but the rest are not to have all their pay till four or five years be expired.

Date, the eleventh day of December, in the year of our Lord God one thousand six hundred and eighty and five.

Those four lines blotted and those words interlined on the other side of the paper was before assigning of it. The line dashed out on this side of the paper was before the assigning of it.

THIRD GENERATION.

4 John (Thomas[3], John[1]) was the oldest child of Dea. Thomas and Phebe Perkins. He was born in Topsfield, Mass., 1641. He married Deborah Browning, Nov. 28, 1666; and died May 19, 1668. She was the daughter of Thomas Browning of Topsfield.

[3] The numbers in parentheses are the same as in Part I; the other numbers refer to Part II only.

Their only child was born a few months before his death. On the decease of her husband, his widow applied to the court for a letter of administration, when the following was given, as appears on record:

"Administration of the estate of John Perkins, deceased, is granted to his widow, Deborah Perkins."

The inventory of his estate amounts to £48, 15s.; guardianship of his only child was given to the mother, June 30, 1668.

Dea. Thomas Perkins, in his will, made a bequest of land or money to "Thomas, my grandchild, son of my son John, if he liveth till he marryeth or be of age," etc.

Child of John and Deborah (Browning) Perkins:

13 Thomas, b. May 4, 1667; m. Sarah Richards, 1694.

5 Phebe (Thomas[3], John[1]) was born in Topsfield, Mass., about 1644. She married Joseph Towne, 1665. He was the son of William and Joanna (Blessing) Towne. He was their youngest son and was probably born in Salem, 1639, where his parents resided for a time. He removed to Topsfield, where he afterwards resided. His name appears as a member of the church there. He was made freeman March 22, 1690, and died 1713, at the age of 74 years.

She died after 1680. We copy the following from the Deeds of Essex County:

"William Towne (born in Yarmouth Eng[d].) and Joanna (Blessing) his wife, in consideration of the natural affection which they bear their son Joseph, and his contemplated marriage with Phebe, daughter of Thomas Perkins, convey to him two thirds of the house where they dwell, with Barn and out-houses, yard, garden &c. &c. 1663."

Dea. Thos. Perkins does not mention his daughter Phebe in his will, she being then deceased, but makes a bequest of forty pounds, to be divided between the children of his daughters. He also gives to "my son, Joseph Towne," sixteen acres of land at the northwest end of Long Hill, and sixteen pounds in money, which is to be paid him by the executors of his will.

The children of Joseph and Phebe (Perkins) Towne were:

Phebe, b. May 4, 1666; m. ——— Newhall.
Joanna, b. Jan. 22, 1668; m. Thos. Nichols. (They were living in Sutton, Mass., 1736.)
Mary, b. March 27, 1670.
Susanna, b. Dec. 24, 1671.
Joseph, b. March 22, 1673.
Sarah, b. Dec. 30, 1675; d. Nov. 1, 1760; "an aged woman."
John, b. Feb. 20, 1678; m. 1st, Eliz. Rea; 2nd, Abigail Stanley.
Martha, b. May 19, 1680; m. Isaac Larrabe of Salem, June 30, 1715.

6 Zaccheus (Thomas[3], John[1]) was born in Topsfield, Mass., about 1647. He married Rebecka ———? about 1704. He died Dec. 1, 1732. She died 15 May, 1747. Very little can be learned concerning his wife. She was living at the time of his decease, and he directs his sons, by his will, to pay her five pounds a year, as long as she should remain his widow.

The court records of 1680 show at one time he had disgraced himself and brought sorrow upon his aged father, who paid a very large sum of money to extricate him from his unpleasant condition.

In his will, his father gives him a farm and house and four acres of meadow land.

In the inventory of his father's property is "Zaccheus, his land,—conditionally given.—70 acres at 30s per acre." This farm was given to his father Thomas by Zaccheus Gould.

Children of Zaccheus and Rebecka (———) Perkins were:

14 Zaccheus, b. Sept. 19, 1705.
15 Thomas, born March 30, 1707.
16 William, b. May 4, 1710.

7 Martha (Thomas[3], John[1]) was born in Topsfield, Mass., about 1649. She married John Lamson Dec. 17, 1669. He was a resident of Ipswich, Mass., and their marriage is recorded there. He died 1684. The time of her death is not known, but it was after 1719.

In the last will of Mary (Perkins) Howlett, she devises "to my sister, Martha Lamson, of Ipswich, living and being with myself in the County of Essex, in New England," etc. This will was made April 16, 1719. She says in this will: "In case my sister, Lamson, shall not live till that time (Mary's decease), then her part shall fall to her eldest surviving daughter."

After the decease of Mary Howlett (1728), her oldest daughter, Phebe, claimed her mother's portion.

Children of John and Martha (P.) Lamson were:

John, b. ——; m. —— Fiske.
William, b. ——.
Thomas, b. ——.
Samuel, b. ——.
Phebe, b. ——; m. —— Fiske.
Martha, b. ——; m. —— Bigsby.

8 Mary (Thomas[3], John[1]) was born in Topsfield, about 1651. She married William Howlett, Oct. 27, 1671. He was a resident of Ipswich.

There is no evidence that she had any children at the time of her decease, as she gives all her property to her other relatives. Her will is valuable and also curious, and shows the attention given in such documents at that time to apparently trifling matters. We quote from it as follows:

"My will is that my cousin, John Howlett, who lives hard by me, shall, at my decease, have my silver porringer, as also his daughter shall have my silver spoon. Also I give to my cousin, John Howlett Senr. ye bedstead which I now have the improvement of, as also my great chest and a cane with an Ivory head on it, at my Decease.

My will is that my cousin, Joseph Cummings, aforesaid, and my cousin, Sarah Wilds, now Perkins, who hath lived with me some years, shall have, at my decease, what remains undisposed of otherwise, equally divided between them, only my bed which I now lie upon shall (and is already ordered to my cousin Joseph Cummings), not be any part divided between them, but shall be free and clear to said Cummings, but all the rest as yet undisposed of, shall be equally divided between them, only that I would have it noted that my little Iron Dish Kittle as also my little brass Kittle that contains about the quantity of a pailful, together with a coverlid, which was my sister Judith's, lately deceased, and fell to my part of her estate. These particulars, last mentioned, shall fall into and be accounted part of my cousin Sarah Wilds or Perkins, aforesaid, her share."

Mary (Perkins) Howlett resided in Ipswich during the lifetime of her husband, and at his death she removed to Topsfield, her birthplace, where she died about June or July, 1728.

It is singular that neither she nor any other married daughters are mentioned in her father's will: he mentions only Judith, who was unmarried.

9 Elisha (Thomas[3], John[1]) was born in Topsfield, Mass., about 1656. He married first, Katherine Towne, Feb. 23, 1680. She was the daughter of Jacob and Katherine (Symonds) Towne, born Feb. 25, 1662; she died July 2, 1714.

He married, second, widow Elizabeth (Knight) Towne, April 4, 1715. She was the widow of Samuel Towne,—his first wife's uncle. She died May 17, 1752. He died Feb. 18, 1741.

He was a farmer and had from his father a part of the homestead. He held many of the public offices of the town and county: he was clerk of the selectmen for 1705–6–8; in 1708–11–17–20–23, was fence viewer; grand juryman in 1708–9–15–18–21–25 was one of the selectmen 1710–12–16–24: and was surveyor of highways in 1717.

Children of Elisha and Katherine (Towne) Perkins were:

17 Thomas, b. Oct. 15, 1681; m. Mary Wildes.
18 Elisha, b. May 27, 1683.
19 John, b. Aug. 12, 1685; m. Mary Easty; d. June 22, 1750.
20 Katherine, b. Feb. 3, 1688.
21 Phebe, b. Aug. 10, 1690; m. 1st, Thos. Goodhall, 1713; 2nd, Joseph How, 1729.
22 Jacob, bapt. Nov. 13, 1692: m. Hannah Borman.
23 Ruth, bapt. May 10, 1695; bapt. June 9, 1695.
24 Mary, b. March 30, 1699.
25 Joseph, b. May 10, 1702; m. Mercy Robinson.

10 Judith (Thomas[3], John[1]) was born in Topsfield, Mass., January 28, 1658. She was never married and it is probable that she always remained at home.

She is singular as being the only daughter in her father's family who is mentioned by name in his will; he gave her by that instrument as follows:

"I do give to my daughter, Judith, forty pounds and a bed and all the furniture thereunto belonging, and one Cow."

She is also mentioned in her sister Mary's will as having lately died. This last will was made in 1719, which was not far from the time of the death of Judith Perkins.

11 Thomas (Thomas[3], John[1]) was born in Topsfield, Mass., about 1659. He married Sarah Wallis, June 1, 1683.

He received, by will, a part of his father's farm, which he cultivated in connection with his brother Timothy for some years, it being his father's express desire that these two brothers should "carry on" this farm together; but, he adds, "if they can not agree to do so, then Thomas was to pay three quarters of the expense of building for Timothy a house like his brother Elisha's." They divided the property when they separated in 1718. Thomas gave his portion, by his will, to his three sons, which portion he describes as being land bounded by that of his brother Timothy.

Thomas Perkins was on a jury at Salem when those accused of witchcraft were tried, and many condemned and executed. He afterwards, with the other jurors, signed a very honorable declaration of regret for the part they had borne in these trials.[3] His wife, Sarah, was living at the time of his death, which occurred in April, 1722.

He was a weaver as well as a farmer.

The children of Thomas and Sarah (Wallis) Perkins were:

26 Sarah, b. Jan. 20, 1684–5; m. William Makittrick Jan. 28, 1722–3.
27 Thomas, bapt. Dec. 9, 1688.
28 Hannah, bapt. March 12, 1692; m. David Balch.
29 Martha, b. June 29, 1695; bapt. June 30, 1695.
30 Robert, b. Feb. 28, 1697; bapt. March 7, 1697; m. Elizabeth Towne.
31 Samuel, b. Nov. 22, 1699; m. Margaret Towne.

12 Timothy (Thomas[3], John[1]) was born in Topsfield, Mass., June 6, 1661. He married, first, Hannah ———, about 1688–9. She died about 1693. He married, second, Abigail ———, about 1694. She died about 1710–11. He married, third, Ruth Dorman about 1712.

The dates of the several marriages of Timothy Perkins are very unreliable, as the early records are exceeding defective; we only base a conjecture upon the mention of the births of their children.

In the last will of Ephraim Dorman of Topsfield, he mentions the fact that his daughter, Ruth, had married Timothy Perkins, and was then dead, leaving a daughter, Ruth, to whom he gives "Ten pounds if she live to the age of eighteen years." This will was signed in July, 1720. He died Dec. 18, 1751.

He was a farmer and received a portion of the farm of his father, as will be seen from his will.

The children of wife Hannah were:

32 Timothy, bapt. July 6, 1690.
33 Hannah, " " " "
34 Jonathan, bapt. Jan. 29, 1692–3; d. June 2, 1749.

Children of wife Abigail were:

35 Abigell, b. June 7, 1695.
36 Hannah, b. Jan. 21, 1697–8.

39 Elizabeth, bapt. Jan. 7, 1709–10; d. Dec. 3, 1710.

FOURTH GENERATION.

13 Thomas (John[4], Thomas[3], John[1]) was born in Topsfield, Mass., May 4, 1667. He married Sarah Richards, 1694. She was probably of Enfield, Conn., born 1661. He died 1709; at the age of 43. She died Sept. 8, 1746, being then 85 years old.

The time of his removal from Topsfield to Enfield is not exactly known. His grandfather, Thomas[3], in his will, gave him a piece of land in Topsfield, or thirty pounds in money, if he should live to be of age or marry, and we find upon the records of deeds of Essex County, a deed from Thomas Perkins of Enfield, Hampshire Co., Mass., to John Robinson of Topsfield, Mass., of twenty acres of land in the 4th division of Topsfield, which, he says, "I received of my grandfather, Thomas Perkins, by his will." This bears date of Oct. 21, 1692; at that time he was twenty-five years old.

Hinman, in his "Connecticut settlers," says, "Thomas Perkins, early settler of Enfield. married Sarah Richards 1694, and died 31 Oct., 1709—43 years old."

He was probably a farmer.

Children of Thomas and Sarah (Richards) Perkins were:

41 Thomas, b. Sept. 22, 1694; m. May Allyn.

He died intestate, and his widow, Priscilla, was appointed Administratrix of his estate. After his death, his widow married for a second husband, Humphrey Hobson of Rowley, who was appointed in 1748 as guardian of his daughter, Priscilla Perkins, then under 14 years of age.

He was a tailor by trade, and resided in Rowley; his name often appears upon the records of Essex County deeds.

The children of Zaccheus and Priscilla (Jewett) Perkins were:

She died in Kennebunkport, Me., April 1, 1742. He died of cancer of the face, 1761, in Kennebunkport, Me.

What is known of Capt. Joseph Perkins has been obtained from his grandson, the venerable Amos Perkins of Unity, N. H., who died in his 93rd year; and we cannot do better than to give his own words which are as follows:

"He was born in Topsfield in 1738 and was one of the three first pioneers who visited this town (Unity, N. H.) about the date of its first charter — 1764. He married Anna Batchelder and removed from Topsfield to Unity in 1775 or 6. His family then consisted of five sons and two daughters — Jacob, Henry, Jabesh, Elisha, Anna and Lucy; some of them were born in Topsfield and some at Unity.

My Grandfather was a man of some property—had 400 acres of land in a body: He bought a Mill privilege in North Charlestown on Little Sugar River, where he built a Grist Mill and where he afterwards settled his fourth son, Elisha. He also purchased water-power in Middlesex, Vt., where he erected a saw-mill and grist-mill; there his sons Henry and Jabesh lived for 20 years or more.

He was a man of peculiar prejudices; he would never own a horse, but, although quite corpulent, would keep and always ride a mewl in all his journeyings, as a carriage, in those days, was never known or thought of. He was very fond of wild game and kept himself well armed with a good gun, bear-trap, fox trap and about 25 small steel traps.

He was elected Selectman for several years. He died in June, 1805. I remember him well, being in the 16th year of my age when he died."

"My Grandfather was a man of strong prejudices both in religious and political matters and was of undoubted integrity. He was a Republican of the Jefferson school and had no sympathy with the Federal party. In religious matters he was rather sceptical."

He had the title of a captain and is said at one time to have been the commander of a vessel, but this rests wholly on tradition.

He was a man of the strictest integrity and untiring industry, a sworn enemy to intemperance and idleness; by his enterprise he aided very materially in building up the reputation for Salem, which that place so long enjoyed.

He offered, in his will, a prize to such undergraduate of Harvard College as would write the best essay on the "ill effects of intemperance" and another "on the importance of industrious habits in youth."

He gave, by his last will, the sum of one thousand dollars to the Salem Female Charitable Society and manifested his continued interest in commerce and the welfare of seamen by the munificent gift of the Franklin Building to the Marine Society of Salem. He was for the period of his active life, one of the marked men of his time in the local history of his adopted town, and his memory will be long and gratefully cherished there.

"He was of a religious turn of mind, united with the Methodists and was considered a prominent pillar of the church.

"I am confident that my father was named for his grandfather and that he was a son or descendant of Thos. Perkins, but of that I am not so certain.

"Seventy-five or eighty years ago my father annually made a journey to Salem with a sleighload of pork, butter, cheese, etc., which he exchanged for salt-fish and other articles — a year's supply — and would invariably stop at Topsfield over Sunday and bring home a lot of Walnuts for the children. PART THIRD.

DESCENDANTS OF

SERGEANT JACOB PERKINS.

PREFACE.

The issue of this, the third part of the genealogy of John Perkins, senior, completes the design of the compiler, as expressed in the note upon the twenty-first page of Part one.

Part Three is entirely devoted to the descendants of the third and youngest son,—"Sergeant Jacob."

The facilities for gathering reliable information, which were enjoyed in the compilation of the two previous parts, were, in great measure, wanting in this. The early records were not accessible, as the families had removed to distant points.

The genealogist finds himself very dependent upon the records of towns and churches and often upon the inscriptions on gravestones, nearly all of which were inaccessible in this case; a single brief visit was made to Norwich, Conn., the home of two of the sons of Sergeant Jacob, and in this ancient city much valuable information was found. But what was wanting in old records has, in part, been made up by contributions from family records and other sources.

While engaged upon this work, several lists of names of the descendants of Deacon Joseph Perkins were kindly placed in my hands, each being nearly a copy of the same list; but as these lists contained scarcely a date or name of place, they were, on this account, of little value. Much of the material has been gathered by the very slow, and not always reliable means of correspondence, which often contains much questionable tradition mixed with facts.

To all who have assisted me in this compilation, my grateful acknowledgments are due.

I am under special obligations to F. B. Perkins, Esq., of San Francisco, Cal., and to his brother, Charles E. Perkins, Esq., of Hartford, Conn. These gentlemen have placed in my hands their entire large collections of papers relating to this branch of the family, with permission to use them freely; these notes were collected with much labor by them from reliable sources, and embrace the printed notes of the former gentleman which appeared some years ago in the N. E. Genealogical Register; without these papers it would have been impossible for me to have prepared the present volume.

Other friends have rendered me much valuable aid; among these I may mention Miss M. K. Talcott of Hartford, Conn.; Samuel C. Perkins, LL.D., of Philadelphia, Pa., Donald G. Perkins, Esq., of Norwich, Conn., and Mr. D. W. Perkins of Utica, N. Y., to all of whom my sincere thanks are due.

As no genealogy was ever written without many errors, and omissions, it is not to be supposed that this will prove an exception, but the compiler trusts that this effort to serve his kinsmen will be received by them in a spirit of kindness and its errors pardoned.

THE FAMILY OF JOHN PERKINS OF IPSWICH.

PART III.

SERGEANT JACOB.

THE first part of this Genealogy of the Perkins family was published in 1884, and it contains all that is known of John Perkins, sen., and of each of his children; to this the reader must be referred for information concerning them; but, inasmuch, as this part is devoted exclusively to the descendants of Serg. Jacob Perkins, we give below what relates to him, for the benefit of such as may not have access to the entire volume, and have added an inventory of his property at the time of his decease.

2 Jacob Perkins, whose descendants are given in this third part, was the youngest son of John, sen. He was born in England in 1624 and was consequently but seven years old when he landed in Boston with his parents in 1631. Two years after, when only nine years old, he removed with others of the family to Agawam or Ipswich, which was to be his future home, and very probably assisted his father in building his house in this strange land. The earliest mention of him is found in his father's will made about the time of his death, 1654. This will and the inventory of his property are given in full on pages 5 and 6 of Part I.

After the death of his father and mother he came in possession of the homestead, stated in the will as "dwelling-house, all the outhousing and landes of one kinde and another, together with all improvements thereupon."

This house was located in the extreme eastern part of the town of Ipswich, very near the river side and also near to Manning and Jeffries' necks, where much of his farming land was situated.

This house he occupied until the seventh of August, 1668, when it was destroyed by fire through the carelessness of a servant girl. She was imprisoned and afterward brought up before the magistrate to answer for her deed. As it will be of interest to know the manner of the destruction of this house, we give the account of her examination at some length, as it is found upon the court files of 1668, from which it is copied.

"The examination of Mehitable Brabrook[1] aged about 16 years taken on the 15 day of August 1668.

This examinate saith that on Thursday last was seavennight her master Jacob Perkins and his wife being gon to Towne she was left at home alone. about 2 or 3 a clock in the afternoon she was taking tobacco in a pipe and went out of the house with her pipe and gott upon the owen on the outside and backside of the house to looke if there were any hogs in the corne and she layd her right hand upon the thatch of the house to stay herself and with her left hand knocked out her pipe over her right arme upon the thatch of the eaves of the house not thinking there had been any fire in the pipe and imediately went down into the corne field to drive out the hogs she saw in it, and as she was going toward the railes of the field toward Abraham Perkins house she looked back and saw a smoke upon her Mrs house in the place where she had knocked out her pipe by which she was much frighted and went into the sd Abraham Perkins house to intreat her to helpe me about a kettle of cloathes and goodwife Perkins sent her to the barne to call her mayd to come and look to the child whilst she went to help this examinate and when I came with the mayd the sd goodwife Perkins and this examinate went toward Mr. Jacob Perkins. in the way we saw the smoake from the house and then ran and coming to the house found the fire in the place above the owen where I had knocked out my pipe. I ran for a paile of water but before I could get out of the well the thatch flamed and for want of ladders and helpers being ready the house was burned down. being demanded why upon her first seeing the smoake she did not aquaint goodwife Perkins, she said she was loath to fright her, and asked why when first she saw it she did not go back to quench it. she answered she was so frighted she durst not. she further said as she was coming with goodwife Perkins towards the house she said to sd goodwife Perkins why do the woods look so blew beyond our house, and so there was a great smoake behind the house

Mehitable $\overset{\text{mark}}{\times}$ Brabrook.

This confession was taken made and signed the day and year above written before me Daniel Denison.

This examinate further addeth that about an hour before the fire kindled on the house the chimney was on fire a little above the wing at which she was frighted, but she quenched it with Lye she had upon the fire in a kittle of cloathes.

This addition was made the day above written before me— Daniel Denison."

"Goodwife Perkins" (Hannah the wife of Abraham Perkins) gives substantially the same facts. After some search she found the fire and attempted to quench it, but it gained upon them so rapidly that they ceased their efforts.

Several other witnesses were called, but only one could offer any testimony that the fire was set designedly. (This paper is in a very bad condition and some of the words are nearly illegible.)

"The deposition of John Williston aged 20 years or thereabouts saith that one morning a little a fore Jacob Perkins house was burnt Mehitable Brabrook, as I was Going into the meddow to make hay and Mehitable Brabrook toald me her dame was angry with her but she ( ) she had ( ) her now for she had put a Great toade into her kittle of milk, which she toald me the next morning after she had put the toade in the milk. it was about the latter end of last July, and further saith not.

Sworn in Court held at Ipswich the 29 of Sept. 1668.

attest Robert Lord cleric."

Such is the account which comes to us of the destruction of the house of John Perkins, sen.

After the destruction of this old mansion, Jacob Perkins, his son, built another house not far from the site of the first; this house was standing in 1885, but in a very dilapidated condition and not tenantable and was then taken down. The western half had been blown down some years before.

The house built by Jacob Perkins was of two stories, with two large-sized rooms and a bed-room upon each floor and a "lean-to" upon the back, as was the fashion of the time. In the middle of the house was an immense chimney, the bricks of which were laid in clay mortar as high as the roof. The portion above the roof, which was exposed to the weather, was laid in lime mortar; all the lime of those days was prepared by burning clam shells—some portion of these imperfectly burnt shells could be seen in the mortar. The frame of the house was of oak, the floor timbers were fourteen inches square. Just in front of the door and quite near it was a well of water; this has been known for many years as "Jacob's Well;" it is still to be seen, though choked with rubbish and soon all vestige of the old mansion will have disappeared.

The military title of Sargent was first prefixed to the name of Jacob Perkins in 1664, when he was chosen Sergeant of the military band of Ipswich, and he always bore it afterward.

Jacob Perkins was married about 1647 or 8, as his oldest child, Elizabeth, was born in 1649. The name of his wife was Elizabeth ———. She died Feb. 12, 1665, as is recorded in the family Bible. We are left in ignorance of her surname.

In Part I of this book it was hinted that her father's name might have been Whipple, but further search shows it to be a mistake, and we are still left in uncertainty. Thomas Lovell, who was one of the first settlers of Ipswich and one of the leading men in the little colony, mentions in his will a "daughter Elizabeth Perkins." When Serg. Jacob Perkins gave to his two sons, Jacob and Matthew, deeds of gift of land at the time of their marriage, we find on each deed the name of Thomas Lovell as a witness; his name often occurs in connection with this family, which certainly looks as though there might be some near relationship between the two families, but this needs confirmation.

After the death of his first wife, Elizabeth, Jacob Perkins married Damaris Robinson of Boston, widow of Nathaniel Robinson, mariner, with whom he lived until his death, Jan. 27, 1699–1700.

After his death she returned to Boston, where she died in 1716. She left a will by which she gave her property to her children by her first husband.

In his old age he gave his property to his two sons, Jacob and Matthew, who engaged to support their stepmother "as long as she should live," according to an agreement he had made previous to his second marriage.

We find but little upon the record concerning him. He, like all his neighbors, who were farmers, lived a quiet and uneventful life; his name is sometimes found upon the "Deeds" in the transfer or purchase of land or as witness to a will or deed, and, in one instance, as foreman of a jury of inquest.

3 Elizabeth (Jacob[2], John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., April 1, 1649. She married Thomas Boreman, son of Thomas Boreman, sen., Jan. 1, 1667.

She died April 1, 1718. He was born 1645 and died March, 1718.

He was a farmer and his name is often seen upon the records. He was one of the bondsmen for his brothers-in-law, Jacob and Matthew Perkins, at the time of their administration upon the estate of their father.

---

[1] The numbers in parentheses are the same as in Part I; the other numbers refer to Part III only.

Their children were:

Thomas, b. Aug. 8, 1669.
Jacob, b. June 10, 1671.
John, b. March 18, 1672–3.
And perhaps others.

4 John (Jacob[2], John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., July 3, 1652. He married, first, Mary Fiske of Wenham, Mass. She was the daughter of Capt. Thomas Fiske and was born about 1655. She died Oct. 9, 1695. He married, second, Elizabeth Prythatch of Ipswich, Oct. 13, 1696. She died Jan. 2, 1710–11. He married, third, widow Mary Hooper, published April 8, 1711: married April 28, 1711. She was the widow of Samuel Hooper of Boston whom she had married Feb. 16, 1693. Her maiden name was White.

He died March 15, 1717.

He, with others, bought a large tract of land of two or three hundred acres on the borders of Wenham and Ipswich (now Hamilton) in 1693. He was a resident of Wenham and was known as Serg. John Perkins. He was a farmer. The dates of the birth of his children, who were all by his first wife, are not recorded. His estate was settled about 1720.

The children of John and Mary (Fiske) Perkins were:

12 Thomas, b. about 1689; m., 1st, Hannah Woodbury; 2nd, Elizabeth Fowler, Jan. 22, 1730.
13 Anna, b. 1692; m. [6]John Perkins of Ipswich (see part I).
14 Esther, b. Sept. 30, 1695; m. Benj. Gilbert of Ipswich, Aug. 4, 1716.
15 Rebecca. b.; m. Thos. Howe, jr., of Marlborough, April 26, 1715.
16 Mary, b.; m. Robert Quarles, pub. July 9, 1709.
17 Elizabeth, b.; m. William Rogers, pub. April 15, 1698.
18 Sarah, b.; m. John Edwards, jr., of Wenham, pub. May 29, 1709.
19 Martha, b.; probably unmarried.

5 Judith (Jacob[2], John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., July 1, 1655. She married Nathaniel Browne, Dec. 16, 1673. (She was probably a second wife.) He was born 1645 and died in Ipswich, Mass., 1717. She was living at the time of her husband's death.

He was a soap-boiler by trade.

Their children were:

John, b.; removed to Preston, Conn.
Nathaniel, b.; m., 1st, Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Fiske; 2nd, Lydia ———.
Elizabeth, b.; m. Wm. Stasy, 1702; d. before 1766.
Jacob, b.; d. 1769; m., 1st, ——— Burnham, 1767, of Hamilton; 2nd, Elizabeth Brown, 1761, of Hamilton.
Mary, b.; m. John Hubbard, 1710.
Hannah, b.; m. Edward Cogswell.
James, b. June 1, 1685; m. Jemima Quarles; d. 1735.
And possibly Thomas and Joseph.

6 Mary (Jacob[2], John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., May 14, 1658. She married, first, Thomas Wells? Jan. 10, 1669–70; second, John Annable of Ipswich.

The records of the town of Ipswich give the marriage of a Mary Perkins with Thos. Wells as above stated, but if she was the Mary (and we know of no other living there at the time), she was but eleven or twelve years old, which is possible, but seems to us improbable. We are certain that she did marry John Annable, whose wife she was in 1699, at which time he (J. A.) gives a deed of land to his "brother-in-law, Matthew Perkins, weaver."

Time of her death is unknown.

The children of John and Mary (Perkins) Annable were:

John, b. Jan. 5, 1678.
Matthew, b. Feb. 25, 1682; m. Mary Annable, 1711.
Mary, b. Dec. 7, 1684; m. Thomas Baker, Nov. 27, 1703.
Joseph, b. Jan. 11, 1690.

Judith, b. March 16, 1701; m. Benjamin Stone, Oct. 14, 1721.

Robert, b. June 18, 1703; m. Bethia Knowlton, Oct. 18, 1721.

And perhaps Joanna and Mehitable.

7 Jacob (Jacob[2], John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., Aug. 3, 1662. He married, first, Elizabeth Sparks, Dec. 27, 1684. She died April 10, 1692. She was the daughter of John Sparks. Second, Sarah Treadwell, Jan. 5, 1693. She died Aug. 5, 1738, 65 years, 7 months. He died Nov. —, 1705. He left a will, of which his widow, Sarah, was the executrix.

His father, Jacob, gave him a deed of land March 7, 1687. Thomas Lovell was a witness to his signature.

His name appears frequently upon the deeds as buying and selling land. He was a weaver and farmer, and, with his brother Matthew, carried on his father's farm when he became incapable of managing it. They administered upon the estate at his death, 1699–1700. Thomas Boreman and Nathaniel Browne were their bondsmen.

The children of Jacob and Elizabeth (Sparks) Perkins were:

20 Jacob, b. Feb. 15, 1685; m. Lydia ——; went to Cape Neddock, Me., and probably left descendants there.

21 John, b. Sept. 2, 1687; went to Norwich, Conn.

22 Elizabeth, b. March 18, 1690; pub. April 28, 1711; m. David Burnham, July 2, 1711. He was b. Oct. 20, 1688; d. Feb. 2(?).

The children of Jacob and Sarah (Treadwell) Perkins were:

23 Elisha, b. 1694; m. Abigail Newmarch, Aug. 4, 1722.

24 Sarah, b. Dec. 26, 1696.

25 Mary, b. Nov. 26, 1698.

26 Hannah, b. Aug. 24, 1701.

27 Judith, b. Nov. 4, 1705.

8 Matthew (Jacob[2], John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., June 23, 1665. He married Esther Burnham 1685–6. She was the daughter of Lieut. Thomas and Mary (Tuttle) Burnham, born Aug. 3, 1662. March 23, 1665–6, Serg. Jacob Perkins gave his son Matthew a deed of gift of "a house and one quarter of an acre of land within that ye gate that ye highway leads to Jeffrey's neck, on his marriage with Lieut. Burnham his daughter." This deed was witnessed by Thomas Lovell, sen. The town record gives the following: "Capt. Matthew Perkins departed this life April 15, 1738, Æt. 72 y. 9 m. 23 d."

Before his death he executed a will, proved April 27, 1738; in this he does not mention his son Joseph, and only speaks of his "daughter Mary's children." Joseph and Mary had probably deceased before this time. His widow, Esther, was executrix of his will.

Esther, the widow of Capt. Matthew Perkins, executed a will June 5, 1743, proved Oct. 16, 1749, in which she gives to her daughter Herbin, also to her daughter Mary Smith's children, and to the four sons of her son Matthew; to these last she gives land which her husband owned at "Cox Hall."

The following is an extract from her will:

"I give to my daughter Herbin my Great Bible and her father's Bible. I give to my grandson Matthew his grandfather's cane. I give unto my granddaughter, Mary Smith, my Sabbath day Bible, and a book lately bought of Mr. Mitchell's works, and my cupboard standing in the shop, and my bread keeler and my bed I now lay upon and all the furniture belonging to it."

She died Oct. 6, 1749.

Their children were:

28 Matthew, b. about 1688; m., 1st, Martha Rogers; 2nd, Widow Mary Smith.

29 Esther, b. July 17, 1690; m., 1st, Abraham Perkins; 2nd, Edward Potter; 3rd, Dr. Cæsar Aug. Harbin. See [42]Abraham, p. 36, part I.
30 Joseph, b. June 15, 1695; probably died before 1738.
31 Mary, b. Dec. 3, 1696; m. Matthew Smith, jr.
32 Elizabeth, b. Oct. 27, 1702; m. Stephen Glazier, Dec. 24, 1720.

10 Joseph (Jacob[2], John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., June 21, 1674. He removed to Norwich, Conn., in early life and married there Martha, the daughter of Joseph and Dorothy Morgan, May 22, 1700. She was of Preston, Conn., born 1680, and died Oct., 1754.

He died in Norwich, Conn., Sept. 6, 1726.

At the time of his removal from Ipswich, Mass., he was accompanied by two of his brothers, Jabez and Matthew. Matthew soon returned to Ipswich. Joseph and Jabez purchased a large tract of land (800 or 1,200 acres) for £70. This land was situated in the forks of the Quinebaug and Shetucket rivers, in that part of the town of Norwich which became afterward the town of Lisbon and was known as "Perkins' Crotch." This land remained in the family until 1804–1820.

Joseph Perkins was an influential man, both in the town and church; by the latter he was elected a deacon, and is distinguished by his descendants as "Deacon Joseph Perkins."

Their children were:

33 Elizabeth, b. Nov. 5, 1701.
34 Mary, b. about 1703; m. Rev. Daniel Kirkland.
35 Joseph, b. Oct. 25, 1704; d. July 7, 1794.
36 Martha, b. Aug. 21, 1705; m., 1st, Thos. Todd; 2nd, Solomon Lathrop; 3d, Matthew Loomis.
37 John, b. Oct. 5, 1709; d. April 16, 1761.
38 Jerusha, b. Sept. 1, 1711; m. Rev. Jedediah Hyde.
39 Matthew, b. Aug. 31, 1713; d. May 3, 1773.
40 Deborah, } twins; b. July 20, 1715; m. Benajah Carey.
41 Ann, } d. June 29, 1731.

42 Hannah, b. 1717; m. Lemuel Bingham.
43 Simon, b. 1720.
44 William, b. 1722; m. Elizabeth Buck.

11 Jabez (Jacob[2], John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass., May 15, 1677. He married, first, Hannah Lathrop, June 30, 1698. She died April 14, 1721. Second, Charity Leonard of Middlebury, Dec. 17, 1722. He died Jan. 15, 1742.

Joseph and Jabez Perkins, with an older brother, Matthew, removed from Ipswich, Mass., and bought land in Connecticut in 1695, about 2,000 acres in the town of Norwich; this portion of the town was afterward the town of Lisbon.

The two brothers were leading men in the affairs of the town and church during their lives; their descendants are still quite numerous in the region and are also found scattered over a great part of the United States and have continued to take leading parts in the communities where they dwell.

The children of Jabez and Hannah (Lathrop) Perkins were:

45 Jabez, b. June 3, 1699; d. April 27, 1739.
46 Hannah, b. 1701; d. 1745; m. Joshua Huntington.
47 Elizabeth, b. 1703.
48 Mary, b.
49 Jacob, b. May 22, 1709; m. Jemima Leonard.
50 Lucy, b. 1709.
51 Luke (perhaps).
52 Judith, b. 1714.

The child of Jabez and Charity (Leonard) Perkins was:

53 Charity, b. Dec. 6, 1724; m. Ezra Lathrop, Jan. 20, 1743.

FOURTH GENERATION.

12 Thomas (John[4], Jacob[2], John[1]) was born in Wenham, Mass., about 1689. He married, first, Hannah Woodbury of Salem, Mass., Feb. 8, 1710–11. She died Oct. 2, 1727. Second, Elizabeth Fowler of Wenham, published Jan. 22, 1730–1. He died Sept., 1749.

He, with his brother-in-law, William Rogers, settled the estate of his father. When this settlement was made they agreed to support their sister Martha during her life time and bury her when she shall die.

The children of Thomas and wife Hannah (Woodbury) Perkins were:

54 Mary, b. June 20, 1712; m. Chas. Adams, Oct. 14, 1733.
55 Hannah, b. June 3, 1714; d. Sept. 14, 1731.
56 John, b. May 23, 1717; m., 1st, Abigail Dodge; 2nd, Anne Whitmarsh.
57 Elizabeth, b. Oct. 23, 1720; m. ——— Stevens.
58 Thomas, b. June 24, 1723; d., in the French and Indian War, May 27, 1745.[1]
59 Abigail, b. Sept. 14, 1725.

The children of Thomas and Elizabeth (Fowler) Perkins were:

60 Hannah, b. Feb. 20, 1731–2; m. Samuel Jennison, Oct. 30, 1757.
61 Jacob, b. Feb. 8, 1732–3; m. Sarah Kimball, May 15, 1758; she d. May 19, 1760, in Sutton, Mass.

14 Esther (John[4], Jacob[2], John[1]) was born in Wenham, Mass., Sept. 30, 1695. She married, in Ipswich, Mass., Lieut. Benjamin Gilbert, Aug. 4, 1716. He was born in Ipswich, Mass., Feb. 1, 1691. He died June 24, 1760, in Brookfield, Mass. He was a farmer.

[1] Thomas Perkins and Thomas Pousland were killed in an attempt to take the Island Battery at Cape Breton, 1745 (Wenham Records).

Lieut. Benjamin Gilbert resided in that part of Ipswich, now Hamilton, upon a farm given him, 1721, by his father, Dea. John Gilbert (who was a son of Humphrey Gilbert).

This gift included half of his father's house, etc., and to this he added land which he purchased of his brother Noah in 1724. Upon this farm it is supposed that he resided until he removed to Brookfield, Mass., in 1747. He purchased a house and farm of Jonathan Bush of Brookfield containing 120 acres, on which nearly the whole of the village of North Brookfield is now situated.

He was commissioned, Feb. 7, 1744, as ensign and served in the expedition against Cape Breton. He afterward obtained the rank of lieutenant. His gravestone is in the old burying-ground, North Brookfield.

Capt. John Perkins was a man of pretty large property for a farmer, it would seem, from "a True Inventory of all the Estate, Both Real & Personal of Capt. John Perkins, Late of Norwich, deceased . . . apprized by us the subscribers under oath according to the value thereof in Lawful money" (1761).

Among the items, which cover fourteen pages of foolscap, closely written, are the following:

"3 Broadcloth Coats, 2 prs. Leather Breeches, Silver Shoe & Knee Buckles, Silver Hilted Sword, Guns, Powder Horns & Flints, Saddles with Pillions, Vessels of Silver, Brass, Pewter & Cedar, a Blacksmith shop outfit, Shoemakers benches & tools. One negro man named London, another named Simon, and their wives Cato & Lucy Hagar, altogether 15 negroes, among them 'Ziba, a sucking child,' valued at 6 £." Of land he had 650 acres in Hanover Society, 347 acres in Windham Co. and, in partnership with Tho. Huntington of Norwich, 358 acres in Canterbury.

It may be inferred that he inherited a comfortable estate from his father, as he was a comparatively young man when he died.

81 Abraham (Matthew[28], Matthew[8], Jacob[2], John[1]) was born in Ipswich, Mass. He was baptized April 6, 1735. He married widow Mary (Sanborn) Fogg, of Sanbornton, N. H. She was the daughter of Jeremiah Sanborn, born Jan. 6, 1733. He died Aug. 16, 1804. His wife, Mary, died May 25, 1823, aged 90 years and 4 mos.

The mother of Abraham Perkins was Mary, widow of Ebenezer Smith and afterward of Matthew Perkins of Ipswich. After the death of her second husband she married, in 1740, James Gerrish of Berwick, Me., to which place she removed with her younger children, Abraham being at that time only five years old.

During his childhood he attended school six months to Master Sullivan, who was the father of General Sullivan of Revolutionary memory.

An incident occurred at this time which made a lasting impression upon the mind of young Abraham: Master Sullivan left the school one day, with strict orders for the boys not to leave the schoolhouse; six of them disobeyed and went to a brook to play, where they were surprised by Indians, scalped and murdered. Abraham obeyed his teacher and was safe. In after life, when he became a teacher himself, he used to relate this fact as a warning to the disobedient.

He removed from Berwick to Exeter, N. H., thence to Sanbornton, N. H., in which place he taught school for thirty years continuously. It is said he subjected his scholars to military discipline and never went himself to church during four years unless under arms. He was a surveyor as well as a teacher, and laid out the earliest roads in Sanbornton.

Before leaving Berwick he had learned the trade of a shoemaker, and while teaching school he occupied his mornings and evenings in making shoes. His lapstone and other implements were treasured and used by his children after him. He also tanned sheepskins with salt and alum. It is evident that he did not spend many idle hours. On the Saturday night before he died, he finished his last school and returned home with the expressed presentiment that his work was done. He never left his house again.

It is said that his influence in forming the character of the people of Sanbornton, in his own and following generations, was hardly second to that of any minister of the gospel that ever resided in the town.

Their children were:

173 Anna, b. Nov. 8, 1758; m. Philip Hunt, jr.; d. March, 1852.
174 Jonathan, b. Oct. 17, 1760; m. Hannah Taylor.

After the death of Capt. Simon Perkins, his widow continued to reside upon the farm left by her husband, and with which a flouring mill was connected, until her death, which occurred Oct. 20, 1805.

87 Dr. Elisha (Joseph[35], Joseph[10], Jacob[2], John[1]) was born in Norwich, Conn., Jan. 16, 1741. He married Sarah Douglass of Plainfield, Conn., Sept. 23, 1762. She was a sister of his brother Simon's wife. She died of consumption, Aug. 10, 1795. He died of yellow fever in the city of New York, Sept. 6, 1799.

Elisha Perkins was a physician, whose residence was in Plainfield, Conn. He was widely known, having a very extensive practice in the surrounding country.

He was well fitted by nature for his work by a strong and vigorous constitution, which enabled him to endure great fatigue. It is said that he was often obliged to ride horseback sixty miles a day to see his patients. He used no spirituous liquors or stimulants, though they were then in common use at that time; three or four hours' sleep daily sufficed him.

He was a man of the kindest and most sympathizing nature, always ready with a helping hand and a kindly word; taking the sick into his own home and family, and, when restored to health by his skill and kindness, they were loud in his praises.

Dr. Perkins became more widely known by his invention of the "metallic tractors," which he used in the treatment of various painful diseases, as neuralgia, rheumatism, etc.

These tractors were two pieces of metal, about three inches in length and of dissimilar kinds, each being pointed at one end. In use they were drawn over the painful part, from above downwards, for about twenty minutes at a time.

This method of cure was recommended by physicians of three institutions in the United States. In Copenhagen, twelve physicians in the Royal Frederick Hospital used and recommended them. In London, the tractors were introduced by a son of Dr. Perkins, and a hospital was opened in that city, under the presidency of Lord Rivers for the benefit of the poor. An almost incredible number of cures were recorded; eight professors, forty physicians and surgeons and thirty clergymen testifying to their efficacy.

Dr. Perkins also brought forward an antiseptic remedy which he used with success in the treatment of ulcerated sore throat (diphtheria?) and typhoid dysentery. Anxious to try the efficacy of this new remedy in yellow fever which was prevailing in New York at that time, he visited that city, and after four weeks of unremitting toil he died of the disease in Sept., 1799.

After the decease of Dr. Perkins the tractors fell into disuse and were ridiculed. It should be stated that he had been expelled from the Connecticut Medical Society in 1797, for advocating the use of his tractors. His antiseptic was not heard of again at that time; but the world moves on. Dr. Elisha Perkins was seventy-five years in advance of his age, and we cannot fail to see in his tractors the germ of the use of electricity, so extensively employed in our day for the cure and alleviation of disease; and in his antiseptic, the dawn of one of the most important improvements of modern medicine; particularly in surgery.

Let us give honor to whom honor is due, even if it be but a tardy post-mortem honor.

She was a descendant of the sixth generation of Thomas Fitch of Brantry, Essex, England, whose wife, after his death, emigrated with her five sons to this country and settled in Saybrook, Conn. One of the sons, James, became a minister of the gospel, first at Saybrook and afterward at Norwich, of which town he was one of the original proprietors, and was, for forty years, pastor of the church there.

Her oldest brother, Rev. Ebenezer Fitch, was first president of Williams College. One of her sisters married William Williams, first graduate of Williams College. Another sister married President Saunders of Burlington College. Another sister married a brother of Dr. Ashbel Green, President of Princeton College.

He (Dr. Eliphaz) was a graduate of Yale College, and began life as a country merchant, but, being unsuccessful and losing all his property, he studied medicine with his father-in-law, Dr. Jabez Fitch. His first professional work was done in Voluntown, Conn.

Induced by the glowing accounts of the then northwest territory, he crossed the mountains on horseback and in due time arrived at the new settlement of Marietta, at the mouth of the Muskingum river. Shortly after, the Indian war broke out (1790) which made it unsafe for him to return, and his family had no tidings from him for two years, during which time they supposed him dead. He, however, practised his profession there, and in time returned to his family and friends as one from the dead.

He did not forget the beautiful land beyond the mountains, and on the eighth of June, 1799, the Indian war then being over, he, with his wife and seven children started for the west. They embarked in a high wagon with bed, bedding, and cooking utensils, the whole drawn by three or four yokes of choice oxen and a saddle horse for his wife, a cow and dog. After a long detention at Reading, Pa., where his two youngest children were born, they reached McKeesport, on the Monongahela river; here Dr. Perkins transferred his family and goods to a flat boat for the remainder of the journey, but sickness among the children and low water in the river detained them still longer. After much trouble they reached their journey's end at Marietta on Oct. 17, 1799.

The fatigue of the long and tedious journey, together with the sickness of herself and children, proved too much for the poor wife and mother; she died Jan., 1800, and was buried at Marietta.

In the spring following, Dr. Perkins removed to Athens on the Hockhocking, which became his future home.

He was a skilful physician, of gentle manners and quiet Christian deportment, all of which characteristics gained for him immediate popularity and influence.

He labored to establish common schools in the country and was an ardent friend and liberal contributor to the Ohio University, of which institution he was one of the first trustees, and for many years its treasurer. He was postmaster at Athens for seventeen years, and county recorder for thirteen years.

He, with others, organized the first Presbyterian society at Athens, and was foremost in promoting every good work in the community in which he lived.

Three years after the death of his wife, Lydia, he married, second, Catherine Greene, who was a cousin of Gen. Nathaniel Greene of the Revolutionary army. She died in 1821. His third wife was Mrs. Anna Catron, who outlived him and died in 1837. Dr. Perkins died at Athens, April 29, 1828.

109 Enoch (Matthew[39], Joseph[10], Jacob[2], John[1]) was born in Norwich, Conn., Aug. 16, 1760. He was married to Anna Pitkin, Sept. 20, 1787, by Rev. Nathan Strong. She was the daughter of Timothy and Temperance (Clap) Pitkin of Farmington, Conn., and was a sister of his brother Nathan's wife. She was born Feb. 19, 1764.

He was graduated at Yale College, 1781, and studied law with William Channing, Esq., of Newport, R. I.; was two and a half years tutor in Yale College, after which he established himself in his profession in Hartford in 1786, where he resided in the active discharge of his duties to the end of his life.

As a lawyer he was distinguished for a thorough acquaintance with the duties of his profession, and he was, to no common degree, skilled in the forms of legal processes, and his services were often called in requisition; his clients are said never to have suffered by his negligence.

As a member of civil society he was ever ready to bear his part of public burdens; and when appointed to civil offices he executed the duties promptly and efficiently, and his services met with the approbation of the wise and good.

In 1809 he was appointed attorney for the state of Connecticut in the county of Hartford, in which office he discharged the duties of public prosecutor with a characteristic regard to moral principle.

He was chosen a member of the Board of Trustees of the Missionary Society of Connecticut in 1808, and was also trustee of the Hartford grammar school.

He was much esteemed and resorted to as an adviser in cases of difficulty, and for this office he was well qualified. He looked coolly into the intricacies of a subject, and it was rare that he did not penetrate it to the bottom; his unbending integrity and honesty of purpose gave to his advice its peculiar value.

His life was one of uncommon evenness and affords no incident to attract particular notice.

While a tutor in Yale College he made a public profession of religion and through his whole life he was thoroughly and sincerely a Christian; his religious feeling sprang from clear views of truth. He observed the Sabbath with great strictness, for he loved its holy hours and sacred duties.

The violence of his disease prevented a full expression of his feelings in the immediate view of death; but he lived the life of the righteous and it cannot be doubted that his end was peace. He died Aug. 28, 1828.

She was the daughter of Solomon and Anna (Denison) Huntington, born April 7, 1770, and died April 17, 1829. He died Sept. 22, 1850. Both died in Windham, Conn.

He was graduated at Yale College, 1785, after which he studied for the ministry; received his degree of A.M. in 1788, when he delivered a Master's Oration in Latin, was licensed and preached for about a year, when he relinquished the pulpit on account of ill health. He afterward studied law, was admitted to the bar, opened an office in Windham, Conn., practised there and in Windham county; and was prominent in all the affairs of the town.

He was a man of much ability and considerable literary attainments, and was the author of a "History of the War of 1812" (1825); "Gen. Jackson's Conduct in the Seminole War" (1828); "Historical Sketches of the U. S., 1815–1830" (1830) and "The World as it is" (1816, 6th edit., 1841).

168 Jacob (Matthew[77], Matthew[28], Matthew[8], Jacob[2], John[1]) was born in Newburyport, Mass., July 9, 1766. He married Hannah Greenleaf, Nov. 11, 1790. She was born Dec. 20, 1770. He died, in London, England, at the house of his son, July 11, 1849.

Jacob Perkins was an eminent mechanic, and no man has done more than he to give to our country her well deserved reputation for useful mechanical inventions.

His father had noticed in the boy a decided genius for mechanics and apprenticed him, when only thirteen years of age, to a Mr. Davis, a goldsmith of Newburyport, who died after Jacob had served him only three years, thereby depriving him of the benefit of his instruction as well as dissolving the contract of apprenticeship.

He did not, however, desert the family of his deceased master, but supported them by his labor, during the four succeeding years.

The business of an artisan in that trade, at that time, consisted largely in the manufacturing of gold beads, silver knee and shoe buckles, etc.; in this work he had introduced such improvements that the cost of these fashionable articles was greatly reduced.

He became skilled as a maker of dies for the striking of coin, and received orders from the government for making the dies used in striking of the copper coin issued at that time; an attempt in which others had signally failed. Some of his dies are now to be seen in Newburyport.

At the age of twenty-one he invented a machine for making nails, by which the cutting off the iron and the heading of the nail was done instantly, by a single operation, thus doing away with the tedious labor of the human hand. The nails in common use in this country at the present time are manufactured by his process. He was defrauded of the benefit of this invention by the dishonesty of his partners in business.

In 1809 he brought out his "patent stereotype steel plate" for the prevention of counterfeits of bank bills and other paper securities; an invention which has completely revolutionized the method of engraving these plates. His invention secured the sanction of the state authorities, and all banks in Massachusetts were obliged, by law, to use his plates; as a result, the bills of these banks were seldom counterfeited. Other states were not slow to avail themselves of the great protection his plates afforded, and their use has now become universal in every civilized country upon all bank notes, bonds and other evidences of indebtedness.

He left his native town in 1816 for Philadelphia, where he resided a few years and then sailed for Liverpool, England, in the ship Telegraph.

While on the voyage, his active mind knew no rest. Continued experiments in sounding resulted in his inventing a new and improved instrument for finding the depth of the sea. This instrument he called a bathometer; it is said to be "as true in a ten-knot breeze as in a calm, indicating every fathom the instrument is under the surface of the sea." He also instituted experiments by which he proved the compressibility of water.

From Liverpool he went to London, where he invented a new steam engine and also a steam gun, capable of discharging "twelve hundred balls in a minute." This last instrument he exhibited in the presence of the Duke of Wellington and other military officers. One of these steam batteries he constructed for the French government.

Among his other inventions was a "steam rocket engine," also a "propeller for steam vessels" to take the place of paddle wheels; and many others, which we cannot here mention, but, which, if collected, would make an interesting volume. He was known in England as the "American inventor."

Upon his discharge from the army, he engaged in the hatting business and supplied the army largely with hats; in this business he continued, in connection with farming, until after the war was ended.

He was elected as a representative to the state legislature for three years, and while there, he, in connection with the Connecticut Land Company, made extensive purchases of land.

She was the daughter of Nathan and Mary (Nevins) Lord of Franklin (Norwich), Conn. She died at "Mayside," Erie Co., Pa., April 7, 1865. She was a descendant in the sixth generation from Thomas Lord who was born in England in 1585 and emigrated to Hartford, Conn., in 1635, sailing from London in the ship "Elizabeth and Ann," bringing with him his wife, Dorothy, and seven children.

Her brother, Eleazer Lord, was the active originator, and for several years president, of the New York and Erie Railroad. He and his brother, David N. Lord, were men of liberal education and published various works upon scientific and religious subjects.

Mrs. Perkins was a woman of admirably balanced mind, great discrimination and of ardent but unassuming piety.

He was a physician. He studied with his father and completed his medical education at the Universities of New York and Pennsylvania. He practised his profession for some years at Athens, Pa. In 1828, he removed to Erie, Pa., and in connection with a brother-in-law, Mr. Charles Lord, he opened a drug store which he continued in connection with his practice for several years. During the last twenty years of his life his practice was confined to the families of his connections and a few friends. He was at one time vice president of the State Medical Society, and at the age of 84 years was a delegate to the National Society and attended its sittings at Cincinnati.

The following extract was from an obituary notice published by the Erie Medical Society:

"It has been so recently that we presented to our readers in the Medical and Surgical Reporter several interesting communications from this venerable and eminent man that the intelligence of his death will appear to many as a peculiarly sudden stroke; it occurred on the 24th of September, 1872, after a brief illness, at the ripe age of ninety. Doct. Perkins was a man of medium size with an organization capable of enduring a great deal of exertion and fatigue. He enjoyed excellent health during his long life, his sight was scarcely impaired till within a year of his death, and he was gathered to his fathers with faculties in a rare state of preservation.

The mental characteristics of Dr. Perkins were a well filled and accurate mind aided by a retentive memory, with a strongly reflective and philosophic tendency leading to classification and generalization of ideas. His observing powers were strong and minute. Nothing within the range of his mental or physical vision escaped him, and each fact and idea took its place in the mental structure his active organization was constantly erecting for his own use or that of his fellow men.

His death was eminently peaceful and happy and in every respect perfectly befitting his character, both as a man and as a Christian."

Mrs. Pratt was only about fifteen years old when the care of her father's motherless family devolved upon her as the oldest daughter. She accepted the situation with true womanly courage and faithfully discharged its responsibilities. Until he was about 45 years of age he was a member of the Presbyterian Church. At that time a minister of the "United Brethren" preached near his residence and curiosity led him to go and hear what the "unlearned" man would say. He was greatly impressed with the truth as presented then and at successive meetings, and the result was that he connected himself with the "Brethren" and subsequently was licensed to preach (1837). In an obituary published by the "Sciota Annual Conference of the United Brethren in Christ" it is said of him that "to the end of his life he was diligent and walked worthy of his vocation." "A week before his death, when suffering from an acute attack of pain, he said, 'I may not live ten days, I may not live ten hours, but it makes no difference, I am all ready; it will be a stepping over.' 274 Thomas Clap (Enoch[109], Matthew[39], Joseph[10], Jacob[2], John[1]) was born in Hartford, Conn., July 30, 1798. He married Mary Foot Beecher, Nov. 7, 1827. She was the daughter of Rev. Lyman Beecher, D.D. She survived him and is now (1889) living, in the enjoyment of good health, at the age of 83.

Mr. Perkins received his preliminary education in the grammar school of his native city; entered Yale College and was graduated in 1818, taking the salutatory and leaving a fine reputation as a classical scholar.

He studied law with the Hon. Seth P. Staples of New Haven and was admitted to the bar in Hartford, in which city he lived and continued in the practice of the law to the end of his life. He was, for some time, secretary of the Protective Fire Insurance Company. He filled several town offices and has been many times a member of the State Senate and of the House. A few years ago he was elected a judge of the Supreme Court, but he declined the honor, preferring a private life in the practice of the profession which he loved.

At the time of his death, Mr. Perkins stood at the head of the bar in many respects. He was very learned in the law; had an intellect of great exactness and clearness, a sound and instructed judgment and wonderful tenacity of purpose. He excelled both in the preparation of a case and in its conduct, convincing court and jury, not so much by eloquence of words as by perspicuity of statement and entire candor of manner. His name was pretty sure to appear on one side or the other of all great cases, and he was always a formidable antagonist.

In his private life, Mr. Perkins was accustomed to lay aside his severe habits of business and gave himself to the genial pleasures of social intercourse. He was a man of much wit and humor and greatly enjoyed them in others, drawing always, for the entertainment of his friends, upon a large store of anecdotes and a wide range of reading.

Mr. Perkins was a man who concealed his charities and avoided a display of sympathy; but a tale of distress never failed to move him. He gave liberally where his gifts were known only to himself and the receivers.

He looked habitually on the bright side of life and never liked to talk of that which was unpleasant or disagreeable. No man was truer or deeper in his attachments, though he sought society chiefly in a limited circle of friends. Those who knew him best most deeply mourn his loss. He was a Christian gentleman of the old school of courtesy and kindness.

He died, after a short and painful sickness, Oct. 11, 1870.

Their children were:

He was a man of great financial ability. He was cashier of a branch of the Hartford Phœnix bank at Litchfield, Conn., for some years, and was afterward cashier of the Hartford bank, the oldest and principal bank in Hartford, of which he remained cashier and president until his death.

He was very widely known and highly esteemed in the financial world, and especially throughout New England. He was a man of the highest integrity and was trustee of many large estates. He accumulated a fortune of more than half a million dollars in the most honorable manner; was a devoted Christian, giving liberally to charities and public objects; never desired or held office, and was a model of the best New England character.

She died May 27, 1821, and was buried with her infant child in Grove St. Cemetery, New Haven. She was the second wife of Mr. Converse; his first was Eliza, daughter of Rev. Samuel Nott of Franklin. Conn., who died in New York city, Jan. 19, 1815, aged 47 years.

Their child was:

Ann Huntington, b. ——; d. June, 1821, aged six weeks.

282 Samuel Huntington (Samuel[111], Matthew[39], Joseph[10], Jacob[2], John[1]) was born in Windham, Conn., Feb. 15, 1797. He married, first, Charlotte Elderkin Clarke, August 5, 1822. She was the daughter of Jabez and Amy or Anne (Elderkin) Clarke of Windham. She died Jan. 19, 1824, aged 26 years, leaving an infant son, Samuel Clarke, who survived her but one month. Second, Mary Feariss Donnell, Sept. 19, 1826, at Philadelphia. She was the daughter of Maj. Nathaniel and Sarah (Feariss) Donnell. She was born Oct. 16, 1793, and died Dec. 9, 1858. Third, Margaret (Savage), widow of Charles Dyott, who, after his decease, married Frank M. Negley.

He graduated at Yale College, 1817. After graduating, he spent a year in teaching in a private family in North Carolina. Thence he came to Philadelphia and studied law with the Hon. Josiah Randall, and was admitted to the Philadelphia bar in 1820, in which he afterward occupied a very prominent and popular position. "Without being brilliant, he was nevertheless an earnest, impressive and successful advocate, alike faithful to his clients and the court. His practice was large and remunerative. His application and industry were untiring. He brought to his profession sterling principles founded on religious education and was at no time without high credit for professional excellence, an excellence which includes the soundest morals upon the purest motives."

He was, through his whole life, connected with many of the benevolent and charitable societies of Philadelphia in which he occupied high and honorable positions, and by the rectitude of his conduct in these trusts he justified the confidence his fellow-citizens reposed in him.

Among the many associations in which he held office the following may be mentioned:

He was for many years President of the Union Benevolent Association; President of the Philadelphia Tract and Mission Society; President of the Board of Directors of Girard College; Vice President of the Pennsylvania Colonization Society; Corporate Member of the Am. Board of Commissioners Foreign Missions; Elder in the First Presbyterian Church.

He was a member of the Ancient Fraternity of Freemasons, and of the I. O. O. F., and in each was elected to fill all the offices, from the humblest to the highest; and at the time of his decease they each passed a series of resolutions embodying their high appreciation of his worth which were afterwards put in a printed form from which selections are here made.

"Faithful and affectionate in his family, genial and cheerful in social intercourse, a sincere friend, a safe counsellor, a judicious advocate, a useful citizen, a worthy mason, a Christian gentleman; in all these relations he has been portrayed in words of just and discriminating eulogy by eloquent tongues and able pens.

"The bequest of Stephen Girard to the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, which was $20,000, had been multiplied nearly threefold at the time of his death, and a large part of the increase had been accumulated under his direction as chairman of the trustees of that munificent bequest.

"And in these times when violations of trust are among the crying sins of the land, it is refreshing to record such an example of financial integrity and hold it up for imitation.

"Not often does the mantle of a prophet fall upon a son. But our late companion lived to see his son follow in his footsteps with equal pace and wear the official robes which he had laid aside with equal dignity."—Masonic Memorial.

"He was an eminent lawyer, refined gentleman and sincere Christian, identified with the most prominent benevolent efforts of Philadelphia, and distinguished alike for energy and ability in the discharge of his many important trusts.

"Every grace of character, which we are accustomed to revere, was his, whether moral, intellectual or social, and these so adorned his life that it was difficult to discriminate in what element of excellence he most excelled."—Odd Fellows' Memorial.

Captain Erastus Perkins died in Norwich, Oct. 18, 1853, in the 102nd year of his age.

Miss Caulkins, in her history of Norwich, says of him, "Captain Erastus Perkins is mentioned as an instance of longevity. He was born Feb. 17, 1752 and died Oct. 15, 1853, 101 years and ten months old; three times married. His first wife, Anne Glover, had ten children, only two of whom survived him. In his last will he leaves a legacy to Erastus Perkins Pooler, the great grandson of my son Jabez deceased.

After the Revolution he was for many years a packet-master, running a sloop between Norwich and New York. For twenty-three years he was Inspector of Customs, acting under the Collector of the New Haven district.

On the day he rounded his century he received one hundred and sixty-five visitors, conversed with them all in a quiet and affable manner, recollected persons, faces, and events readily, related anecdotes when anything suggested them, and had the appearance in mind and body of a man of 80 or 85 years.

He entered early upon a mercantile life and experienced its usual vicissitudes of alternate success and disappointment. He was at one time a broker in Boston, and during the latter years of his life was successively treasurer of the Norwich Bank and treasurer of the Savings Bank.

318 George Leonard (Hezekiah[140], Jacob[49], Jabez[11], Jacob[2], John[1]) was born in Norwich, Conn., Aug. 5, 1788. He married Emily Lathrop, June 1, 1819. He died Sept. 5, 1888, at Groton, Conn., being one hundred years and one month old. His venerable wife, now (1889) over ninety years of age, still survives him.

Col. Geo. L. Perkins has been known throughout the land for more than two score of years as the "venerable treasurer of the Norwich and Worcester Railroad Company," and his memory deserves a much more extended notice than these pages can accord to him. He has always been a citizen of his native place where he has been highly honored and esteemed, not for his venerable age alone, but also for his many virtues, his genial disposition and urbanity of manners.

His health, in early years, gave but little promise of his ever reaching the extreme age to which he at last attained. At the age of twenty-two, he was considered to be in "consumption," and it was then hoped that a voyage to a warmer climate might prolong his life a few years. With this end in view he went by sea to Brazil, but so feeble was he on embarking, that his attendant, who accompanied him, was obliged to take him in his arms and carry him on board ship. His voyage, and a stay of some months in the tropics, had the desired effect, and he returned to his home in health.

To a friend he said "when I landed in New York, I felt as if I could jump over any tree on the Battery, and I have gone on jumping ever since."

He engaged in business in Norwich, as we learn by newspaper advertisements of March 9, 1809.

Upon the breaking out of the war of 1812, he was appointed paymaster of the Second District, including Rhode Island and Connecticut, with the rank of Brigade Major. This office brought him in contact with many officers and others in high position in the country, whose friendship he always after retained. Upon the cessation of the war he again engaged in business.

He was one of the original corporators of the Norwich and Worcester Railroad Company and was one of its first Board of Directors. He was chosen its first treasurer, signed its first check and continued to transact the business of his office to the time of his death, a period of fifty-three years.

Colonel Perkins was a member of the Park Congregational church of Norwich and was the first to establish Sunday schools there.

He has not missed voting at every presidential election since Madison. Several of the presidents have honored him by a call, on passing through Norwich.

Through his life he has been interested in all matters of moment to the community, and when, in early life he heard that Fulton was to sail upon the Hudson in his wonderful steamboat, he walked from Norwich to Poughkeepsie and and was a passenger in her to New York city. In 1861 he was chosen by Governor Buckingham, of Conn., to be the bearer of dispatches from him to president Lincoln, a difficult and hazardous task.

During his long life he has always been a strictly temperate man, taking neither liquor nor tobacco. His advice to young men is to take no spirituous liquors except by the advice of a physician and not then if the physician himself drinks them.

He was always an early riser and went to his office often before breakfast, thus accomplishing much of his work before his clerks made their appearance.

His memory was truly wonderful and he would recite to his friends particulars of events which took place nearly a century before.

He had a vast store of anecdotes with which he entertained his friends, and a keen relish for the humorous seemed to run through them all. The writer was favored with an interview with him after he had passed his hundredth year, and could not realize that the tall, vigorous and healthy man before him had seen a century roll over his head; he appeared like a man of only seventy-five. Scarcely one individual of the very few who attain to the age of a century are found to retain possession of their faculties in the vigor of perfect manhood, as did Colonel Perkins, never forgetting even the little attentions which pertain to perfect courtesy. The anniversary of his hundredth birthday occurred on Sunday, when he attended church as usual and received the congratulations of his pastor and fellow-worshippers. Allusions to him were made in the preacher's sermon and also in many of the other churches of the city.

On the next day, Monday, he entertained a host of his friends belonging to his native city, and others from long distances, at his mansion, and insisted on shaking hands with them all. On that day he remarked that he had reached par.

He died on the fifth of September, just one month after his centennial birthday, at Fort Griswold House, Groton, Conn., where he was spending his annual vacation with his family.

Long may his memory be cherished in the hearts of his many friends.

*187 Simon (Simon,[86] Joseph,[35] Joseph,[10] Jacob,[2] John[1]) born Sept. 17, 1771, at Lisbon, Conn. He married Nancy Bishop March 18, 1804; she was the daughter of Capt. Ezra Bishop of Lisbon, Conn., born Jan. 24, 1780 and died April 24, 1862, at the age of 82 years. He died Nov. 19, 1844.

He had a natural taste for mathematics and early became a surveyor. At the age of twenty-four he was engaged in surveying the wild lands of New York in Tioga and the neighboring counties, and remained there looking after the interests of non-residents for three years. He fulfilled these duties so well that, at the formation of the Erie Land Company, he was appointed by the trustees to act as its general agent and sent to the, then, far away Western Reserve. He made two or three annual trips, the first being in 1798; and in 1801 made Warren, Ohio, his permanent home and remained the only agent in Ohio of the Erie Land Company, until the final settlement and winding up of its affairs in 1831.

He was appointed postmaster on Oct. 30, 1801, at Warren, and held that position until 1829.

While a great portion of his time was given to his land business, he was prominent in all the local undertakings, and was appointed to several positions involving important dealings with the Indians and settlements farther west. He was commissioned Brigadier-General of the Fourth Division on May 21, 1808, and on the breaking out of the war 1812, did important service, after the surrender of Governor Hull at Detroit and at a time when the sparsely settled and unprotected regions between Detroit and Cleveland were in a disorganized and terrified condition. At the end of his service as general of the militia, he was tendered a colonel's commission in the regular army, but was obliged to refuse it on account of the press of his private affairs.

In the winter of 1811–12, he was elected first president of the Western Reserve Bank, the first institution of that kind established in northern Ohio, and held the position until April 5, 1836, when he was compelled to resign on account of failing health. In 1810, he was appointed auditor of Trumbull county and held the position until 1812. He was trustee of the Warren Academy and gave it much time and attention. On Feb. 7, 1826, he was appointed one of the Canal Commissioners of Ohio and was re-appointed from time to time, irrespective of party feeling or prejudice. He established banks at Painesville and Norwalk, Ohio, and was a heavy stockholder in the Trumbull and Ashtabula Turnpike Company. After 1838, he gradually gave up his business cares on account of failing health.

Having purchased between five and six thousand acres of wild land in the vicinity of Akron, he moved there in 1834 and devoted a great deal of time and energy to its improvement and to the improvement of the stock of the vicinity. John Brown, of Harper's Ferry fame, had charge of his sheep for many years. He was much interested and well informed in the matter of the cultivation of flowers and ornamental shrubbery. After the death of Col. Simon Perkins, his friend, Judge Carpenter, said of him.

"His public spirit, not only in the legislature but in private life, told upon everything around him. His general intelligence and solid judgment, his sympathy with the varied interests of common people, his sincerity, frankness and modest simplicity of manner, and, above all, his undoubted integrity throughout a long life and in the severest trials that can test the honor of a man in business affairs, constituted a character to command esteem."

391 Alfred (Simon[187], Simon[85], Joseph[35], Joseph[10], Jacob[2], John[1]) was born in Warren, O., March 19, 1811. He was graduated at Yale College, 1833, and immediately entered his father's office. While on a tour west during the summer of 1834, he contracted the fever and ague which was followed by a severe bilious fever; from the effects of which, and of succeeding fevers, he did not fully recover. In the fall of 1838 he went to the south of Europe for the benefit of his health, and remained in Europe nearly twelve months. He, however, returned home without experiencing any improvement and died of consumption the following spring, March 31, 1840, aged 29 years.

He possessed unusually attractive manners and a sound business discretion: his early death was greatly lamented by his many friends.

393 Charles (Simon[187], Simon[86], Joseph[35], Joseph[10], Jacob[2], John[1]) was born in Warren, Ohio, Nov. 18, 1817.

He accompanied his brother, Alfred, to Europe in 1838, and returned with him, in full health, in the fall of 1839; but the anxiety, care, and loss of rest which an attendance upon his brother caused during the following winter, produced a gradual debility of the system accompanied with a severe nervous sensibility of the eyes, and after great exertions to revive his health, his disease assumed a consumptive form, and he died at Warren, O., April 3, 1840, aged 24 years.

394 Joseph (Simon[187], Simon[86], Joseph[35], Joseph[10], Jacob[2], John[1]) was born at Warren, Ohio, July 5, 1819. He married Martha Ellen Steele, Oct. 25, 1841, at Marietta, Ohio. She was the daughter of Robert M. and Ellen J. Steele and was born at Charlestown, Va., July 5, 1821.

He graduated at Marietta College, at the age of twenty, and first began application to business in the office of his father. In 1852, he moved to Cleveland and at once became actively engaged in its business life and was widely known, especially in its banking and railway enterprises. He was trustee, Elder and Sunday School Superintendent of the Euclid Avenue Presbyterian church for many years, and very largely interested in the charitable and educational institutions of the city and state. He was Vice-President of the Western Reserve College and Advisor in Oberlin College; Vice President of the Humane Society; Trustee of the Young Men's Christian Association; President of the Trustees of the Women's Temperance Union for many years and President of the Protestant Orphan Asylum. He was also interested in the Catholic Institutions, Little Sisters of the Poor and Sisters of the Good Shepherd.

He was a member of the Board of State Charities from its organization till the time of his death, and originator of that plan of jail known as the Ohio jail. He was for many years the main support of the Retreat and erected a large addition to that institution. He built and donated to the Young Ladies' Branch, W. C. A., the Perkins' Day Nursery.

During the last four or five years of his life, increasing ill health induced him to lay aside a large part of his business cares, yet up to the time of his death, he was still actively engaged, being President of the National Bank of Commerce and Trustee both in the Citizens' Saving and Loan Society and in the Society for Savings. He was also Trustee in the Western Reserve Historical Society, President of Lake View Cemetery Association, a member of the Executive Committee of the Garfield Monument.

In hopes of improving his health, he sailed for England, July 4, 1885, and gained somewhat in health and the trip seemed to be of advantage to him, but the return voyage proved unpropitious and greatly exhausted him. On the way west from New York, he stopped at Saratoga Springs where he suddenly and unexpectedly sank and died on the 26th of August, 1885.

Their children were:

633 Olive Douglass, b. Aug. 1, 1842; died of inflammation of the brain, May 26, 1853.

She was born Sept. 8, 1831, and was the daughter of Dr. Jonathan I. Tod of Milton, Ohio, who was a brother of Governor David Tod of Ohio. She died of rapid consumption, June 4, 1857, at Cleveland, Ohio, and was buried at Woodland Cemetery, Warren, Ohio.

He was graduated at Yale College in 1842. He first settled at Warren, Ohio, but removed to Cleveland in the fall of 1856.

In his early years, Jacob Perkins developed a strong inclination for study, acquiring knowledge with unusual facility. He began his preparation for college at Burton Academy in Ohio and completed it at the school of Isaac Webb at Middletown, Conn., and entered Yale College in 1837. He delivered the Philosophic oration at his junior exhibition and was second editor of the Yale Literary Magazine. On account of a long illness, he did not graduate until 1842. He settled first at Warren, Ohio, but removed to Cleveland in the fall of 1856.

During his residence at Warren, he appeared occasionally as a public speaker, always with great acceptance. He was prominent in politics and was one of the Senatorial Presidential electors in Ohio on the Fremont ticket, in 1856. He was a member of the convention that framed the present constitution of Ohio. He was one of the founders of the Woodland Cemetery at Warren and was one of the originators of the permanent fund of the Western Reserve College. He was most influential in obtaining the charter and organizing the Cleveland & Mahoning Railroad Company of which he was elected President and became, later, almost sole financial manager. Owing to the financial crisis of 1857, the work of carrying that road to completion was very severe, and in his devotion to the enterprise, he neglected his health to an extent that proved fatal. He remarked to a friend during his last illness, "If I die, you may inscribe on my tombstone 'Died of Mahoning Railroad.'" He died in Havana, Cuba, July 12, 1859, of quick consumption.

Over this number of scholars he had complete control, and during his subsequent multiplied cares he never lost his interest in this school. He was warden of the Illinois State Prison for two years and superintendent of the Illinois State Reformatory for three years.

Mr. Perkins was a pioneer in the missionary work in Chicago; he established and maintained a school in a most dangerous part of the city of Chicago, known as "the Sands."

He was constantly in contact with the lowest strata of humanity, and his untiring efforts were put forth to assist, elevate and bless them.

His house was besieged with all sorts of people craving all sorts of favors: pecuniary help; situations for work; letters of commendation; influence with the Governor to obtain pardon of children and friends in prison; mothers asking advice for wayward boys, etc. These people came, feeling that if there was any way out of their difficulties he could show it to them. He seemed to see a way over and beyond every obstacle in his path, and always accomplished his ends with but few exceptions. No case of human misery ever seemed to be entirely hopeless to him, and his fertile brain wrought out some plan of help when others would have given up in despair.

His life, spent in efforts to bless both the bodies and souls of his fellow-men, was terminated in his fifty-fifth year.

of brigadier-general. He was in twenty-seven general engagements besides lesser battles, and escaped without a wound.

He was captured in the battle of Hanover Courthouse and confined in Libby Prison. Being very ill while there, he was most kindly treated by the hospital surgeon, and General McLellan, then in command of the Army of the Potomac, to whom he had been very useful in his profession as an engineer, made extraordinary efforts for his release. The Confederate general, then in command at Richmond, and General McLellan, had been personal friends and classmates in West Point; the result was that he was taken from prison and lived with him at his own quarters while he remained a prisoner, and was finally released on his parole of honor that he would not reveal anything he had seen; and that on his return to the Union army he would remain a non-combatant until properly exchanged.

He was subsequently in the Army of the Cumberland on Hooker's staff, who, in speaking of him as a soldier, pronounced him "a man after his own heart."
